U.S. Officer Killed

Explosives Rip Army Building

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A chain of bomb blasts hit a U.S. Army headquarters complex in Frankfurt on Thursday, killing an American lieutenant colonel and wounding 13 other persons.

One of the buildings damaged served as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters after World War II.

An Army spokesman said the "best estimate" was that two bombs went off in the headquarters building and one in front of a nearby officers' club.

The explosions at the Army's 5th Corps headquarters coincided with protests around the world against U.S. action in the Vietnam war, but there was no word immediately on who was responsible for planting the bombs.

The headquarters is in an area called "Little America" because of U.S. military facilities clustered there.

Other American buildings in Frankfurt often have been targets of rock-throwing leftists and fire-bombers protesting the Vietnam war.

"Anybody could have planted the bombs," said Spec. 4 Ted Bloyd of Houston, Tex. "There was a tour group going into the building at the time and anyone could have carried them in a suitcase."

Bloyd was on duty as a military policeman at the entrance of the multistoried headquarters building when the blasts went off. It was after normal duty hours and hundreds of Americans and Germans who work there had left.

Heavy damage also was done to the columned front of the headquarters building, which was occupied after the war by Eisenhower as commander of the Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Powers in Europe, SHAPE.

The colonel who was killed was standing by his car near the officers' club when a bomb went off there, German police said. An American woman about 30 years old and a middle-aged German woman were seriously injured by the blast at the officers' club. The German woman was a club employe, police said.

They said the second floor of the two-story club collapsed from the impact of the explosion.

About 14 persons were dining in the Toast Masters International club on the second floor of the headquarters building. When a bomb went off downstairs, the dinner plates jumped into the air and the diners ran for cover, police said.

Area Man Drowns in Lake Hauto

Diving operations for the body of a 35-year-old Collegeville area man, reported missing Wednesday evening following a boating accident on Lake Hauto in Schuylkill County, continued into darkness Thursday.

State police from Mahanoy City reported divers found the body of Howard K. Thomas, 567 Evansburg Road, Collegeville RD 2, at 8:30 p.m. but failed in an attempt to bring it to the surface.

Thomas L. Davis, Schuylkill County deputy coroner, was called to the scene shortly after 8:30 p.m. after receiving a

U.S. Mines Remain Silent; 4 Soviet Ships Leave Port

SAIGON (AP) — American-laid mines armed themselves Thursday night in harbors of North Vietnam, bringing into force the latest effort to choke off the supply of enemy war goods.

Up to nightfall, hours after the mines activated at the entrances to seven port cities, there were no reports of incidents involving shipping.

While the mine action and intense air strikes over North Vietnam claimed attention in the Indochina war, an even more ominous threat built up against a provincial capital only 60 miles from Saigon.

Embattled An Loc, already 85 per cent destroyed, was battered by 7,000 rounds of artillery shells, rockets and mortars in a 14-hour period Thursday, South Vietnanese headquarters reported.

HEAVIEST BOMBING

It was the heaviest enemy bombardment of the war and came after An Loc had been pounded by daily shellings of about 1,000 rounds since it was besieged April 7, early in the North Vietnamese offensive. Many of the shells slamming into the city north of Saigon were believed to have been fired from artillery captured earlier from government forces in fighting near the Cambodian border north of An Loc.

Enemy forces led by tanks launched repeated assaults at government troops in and around An Loc, but headquarters spokesmen said it still held at nightfall.

They said 10 enemy tanks had been destroyed and one captured. A North Vietnamese regimental commander and 10 of his men were reported to have surrendered.

Spokesmen said they had no count of casualties in the fighting at An Loc.

President Nguyen Van Thieu has said the city must be held at all costs, but fears mounted it might soon become the second provincial capital to fall to the North Vietnamese. Quang Tri, the northernmost provincial capital, was taken by the enemy May 1.

On the northern front between Quang Tri and the old imperial capital of Hue, the military situation was termed "relatively quiet."

Associated Press correspondent Lynn Newland sent word from Da Nang. However, there were reports of North Vietnamese trucks and tracked vehicles moving north and south across the demilitarized zone dividing the warring Vietnam's.

Sources there said government forces still were pulling themselves together after the hammering they took in the Quang Tri debacle. They said it was felt the South Vietnamese would try a countermove soon, however, "because the whole world is watching."

There were more scattered clashes and shellings of government positions in the central highlands, but no major drives on Kontum or Pleiku. Those highlands cities are considered prime objectives of the enemy offensive and new assaults have been expected daily.

Intense air strikes continued Thursday over North Vietnam, but specific targets were not disclosed immediately by the command in Saigon.

MORE ATTACKS

The Viet Cong's Liberation Radio claimed more attacks were carried out Thursday in the Hanoi-Haiphong areas and that three American planes were shot down.

Headquarters listed three American planes lost in Wednesday's raids. Two crewmen aboard a Navy F4 Phantom parachuted and were rescued unharmed, but the four men aboard two Air Force planes were listed as missing.

Naval gunfire also slammed into North Vietnamese targets from what official communiques called "the most formidable cruiser-destroyer striking group assembled in the western Pacific since World War II."

Chicago 7 Sentences Overturned by Court

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal appeals court today overturned the contempt sentences given the so-called Chicago Seven defendants and their two lawyers during the controversial 1970 trial.

The appeals court ordered new trials on the contempt citations, which were issued by Judge Julius J. Hoffman. At the end of the 4½-month trial.

Five defendants were convicted of crossing state lines to incite rioting at the time of the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago. The ruling today by the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals does not affect those verdicts.

Besides the two lawyers and seven defendants who were cited for contempt at the conclusion of the stormy trial, Hoffman also sentenced an original defendant, Bobby G. Seale, to four years for contempt. His contempt citation was also overturned.

A mistrial was declared in Seale's case and he was severed from the other defendants. The government did not retry Seale on the conspiracy charges.

The appeals court ruling was based on a U.S. Supreme Court decision that required a trial judge to let another judge impose contempt sentences if they were not cited until the end of the trial.

Hoffman imposed the sentences the weekend of Feb. 14-15, 1970, as soon as the jury was sent out to reach a verdict.

Seale was granted a mistrial in October 1969 and sentenced to serve three months on each of 16 separate contempt charges.

Antiwar Demonstrators Force Closing of UN to Tourists

Antiwar demonstrators forced the United Nations to close its New York headquarters to tourists and isolated the public from the historic frigate Constutiton in Boston harbor Thursday, in a third day of intense but scattered protest against President Nixon's new Vietnam policy.

More than 500 arrests, most of them peaceful, were logged during the day. But riot police with tear gas battled rock-hurling demonstrators at the University of California in Berkeley.

Eighteen demonstrators were arrested at New Brunswick, N.J., during a vain attempt to block local trains on the main line of the Penn Central Railroad. But five Southern Pacific trains were rerouted at Davis, Calif., after University of California students there spent most of the night sitting on the tracks.

Other groups of protesters tied up auto traffic at Santa Barbara, Calif., and on Chicago's South Lake Shore drive, among a number of target areas.

Three days of window-smashing protest by University of California students at Berkeley left small merchants with an estimated loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars. More than 100 firms reported damage.

Joseph Bishop, surveyed the damaged to windows of his laundry and declared: "I'm going to leave this business in the next month or so. These rioting hoodlums are too much for me."

Seventeen students and faculty members from Columbia University and Brooklyn Community College chained themselves to seats in the visitors' gallery of the U.N. Security Council. They demanded to see U.S. Ambassador George Bush, currently president of the council.

A U.N. spokesman, William Powell, said U.N. headquarters would be closed to the public for the remainder of the day and Friday because of "the rising tide of demonstrations taking place."

"Let there be no mistake about it, this is not a peaceful demonstration," Powell told newsmen. He said a U.N. painter trying to help the guards was bitten so badly on the arm by a protester that he required medical treatment.

Marines removed 11 members of Vietnam Veterans Against the War who chained themselves in the old captain's quarters of the Constitution, "Old Ironside" of historic accomplishment in the War of 1812. She is moored in the Charlestown Navy Yard in Boston. They had refused to leave peacefully.

"The Navy respects the right of these men to hold their views," said Cmdr. Matthew Romano, a Navy public affairs officer. "However, they were on government property and the Navy has an obligation to protect the ship."

Ireland Votes To Join Europe's Common Market

DUBLIN (AP) — Ireland Thursday voted overwhelmingly in favor of joining the European Common Market, ending 50 years of isolation and handing a massive rebuff to political leaders of violent nationalism.

The voters were asked to give Prime Minister Jack Lynch constitutional power to take the nation into Europe. They did so with a mighty "yes."

With 35 of the 42 electoral districts counted, the vote was 838,987 in favor and 177,774 against. The "yes" vote was ahead in all remaining districts.

Lynch's Fianna Fail party, the soldiers of destiny, proclaimed "a fantastic victory—we aimed at 2 to 1 in favor but it looks closer to 4 to 1."

The result gives the government power to amend Ireland's 1937 consitiution so that laws of the European community will have full force here.

County District Attorney Is Criticized by Judges

Montgomery County District Attorney Milton O. Moss was the target of severe criticism leveled Thursday by all 12 judges of Montgomery County Court.

Without mentioning the official by name, the judges called upon the chairman of the Montgomery County Democratic and Repubican Parties to assure when they propose district attorney candidates for the 1975 eection that the candidates will be willing to devote full time to the job.

The request came following one paragraph in the resolution which stated:

"Whereas there has developed an increasing concern by the bench and bar alike regarding allegedly conflicting responsibilities between the district attorney in his role as the public prosecutor and those as private counsel."

PRIVATE COUNSEL

The reference to private counsel, in the opinion of many courthouse observers, was crystalized when Moss was private counsel for the wife of Leonard Tose, owner of the Philadelphia Eagles football team, when she attempted to have him declared legally incompetent of handling money.

The case generated a good deal of publicity in the courthouse, and many characterized the proceedings as a "... circus which the district attorney should never be associated with."

The resolution, considered unprecedented in the courthouse, began with the judges citing various statistics concerning the number of cases disposed of, and the number of cases appealed to higher courts.

House Approves Increase Of Minimum Wage to $2

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Thursday approved a two-step increase in the minimum wage to $2 an hour, rejecting a proposal to make the jump immediately and extend coverage to 5.8 million additional workers.

The bill passed by the House would raise the present $1.60 minimum to $1.80 within two months after enactment, and to $2 a year later. Lower rates would be set for teenagers and farm workers.

The measure goes to the Senate where a bill raising the minimum to $2.20 an hour this year and expanding the coverage is awaiting final action by the Senate Labor Committee.

The House vote was a victory for the administration and a setback for the Democratic leadership, which had made the $2 minimum now, and the extension of coverage to government employes and household domestics a key part of its legislative program.

Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., who offered the amendment to stretch out the $2 rate until next year, said an immediate boost, amounting to a 25 per cent increase, would "completely gut" the 5.5 per cent guideline for pay raises set by the Pay Board.

He called his amendment, which was adopted 216 to 187, "the small business amendment." Most small retail and service establishments would be hard hit by a raise to $2 at this time, he said.

Rep. John Dent, D-Pa., who led the fight for the immediate boost, said it was needed to overcome cost of living increases since the $1.60 level was set in 1966. "during that same period," he said, "Congress raised its own pay 42 per cent to $42,500 for the same reason."

It would provide a $1.60 rate for youth under 18 and students under 21.

The wage rates set by Anderson's amendment would move the $1.60 rate to $1.80 this year and $2 next year for those workers covered by the minimum wage law prior to 1966. The 11.2 million workers brought under the act for the first time in 1966 would go to $1.70 now, $1.80 next year and $2 a year later.

The bill would provide a two-step raise for farm workers, who now get $1.30 an hour. The rate would go to $1.50 this year and to $1.70 next year. Only farms that employ an average of eight full-time workers are covered by the minimum wage laws.

Rizzo Feels Philadelphia Will Lose Bicentennial Chance

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A downcast Mayor Frank L. Rizzo predicted Thursday that Philadelphia will lose its chance to host the nation's 200th birthday party in 1976.

Rizzo emerged from a meeting with middle-echelon officials of the U.S. Commerce Department in Washington and said he has the feeling there won't be a bicentennial exposition here as planned.

"I hope I'm wrong," said the mayor, "but from the conversations I've heard here today I wouldn't bet any money that we'd be successful in getting the bicentennial."

The mayor's trip to the nation's capital was billed as a last-ditch effort to save the projected gala, which has been in the stop-and-start stage for the past eight years.

Rizzo and a delegation of Philadelphia officials met with U.S. Undersecretary of Commerce James T. Lynn and other members of the department, which has final say-so over the city's application for over $250 million in initial funding. Rizzo and the others had expected to see Commerce Secretary Peter Peterson, but he was meeting with the Soviet trade mission. President Nixon's domestic affairs adviser, John Ehrlichmann, was also expected to brief the party, but he, too, was called away on other business.

Lynn said the department must put further study into Philadelphia's application before it makes a recommendation to the White House. He said the decision on whether to fund the fair will depend heavily on the views of the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission.

The ARBC has as yet taken no stand on the Philadelphia exposition. Last week, however, a spokesman for the commission—Daniel Buser—said the group would find it "very difficult" to approve the overall $956 million the federal government has estimated it will be called on to give.

The apparent lack of satisfaction from the federal government is not the first obstacle the local exposition planners have had to confront. The first four choices of sites to locate the fair were turned down, three of them by the opposition of local residents.

The first bicentennial plan—proposed in 1966—was shot down in 1969 by then Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans.

Man Killed As Auto Hits Pole in Township

A 40-year-old Audubon man was killed late Wednesday when he lost control of his car and slammed into a utility pole along Egypt Road in Lower Providence Township.

James F. Fronk was dead on arrival at Montgomery Hospital, Norristown at 11:20 p.m. He was taken to the hospital in a Lower Providence ambulance.

Dr. John Hoffa, Montgomery County coroner, said Mr. Fronk died of multiple fractures of the skull suffered when he was thrown through the windshield of his car.

Lower Providence police said the accident occurred shortly after 10:30 p.m. when the victim's westbound car ran off Egypt Road near Culp Road.

According to police, Mr. Fronk was thrown from the car. And was found lying on a sidewalk 25 feet from the demolished auto.

Born in Westover, Mr. Fronk was a son of Mrs. Isabelle (Fronk) Good, Norristown, and husband of Margaret (Frantz) Fronk.

He was employed as an equipment operator by Philadelphia Electric Co.

report that the body was found.

A spokesman for the Hazleton Rescue Squad said one of the divers found the body lying face down in 15 feet of water, 100 yards from the southern shore of the lake, where it disappeared beneath the surface 24 hours before.

Efforts to bring the body to the surface were unsuccessful however, as the body slipped free and sunk to the bottom of the murky lake.

State police reported that the victim and his brother-in-law, David Blair, 25, Conshohocken, were canoeing in Lake Hauto, six miles from Tamaqua Wednesday evening.

According to police, the accident occurred as the two men were attempting to cross the upper third of the lake.

Blair told troopers Thursday they were half way across the lake when they decided to turn back. It was during efforts to maneuver the canoe that the craft capsized, throwing the two men into the water.

With Blair leading the way, both men attempted to swim to the southern shore, less than a quarter mile from the overturned canoe. According to Blair, they were 100 yards from shore when Thomas began having trouble and suddenly disappeared below the surface.

Blair made it to the southern shore and began calling for help.

Lake Hauto, which lies in the Hauto Valley in Schuylkill and Carbon counties, has been undergoing development as a year-round community in recent years, but the south shore is not developed for housing.

Edward Wise, a lake security guard, heard the call and had to cross the lake to reach Blair. Several residents then began a search of the area where Thomas was last seen, but quit at darkness.

State police were notified at 9:30 p.m. after the first search ended. Troopers then alerted diving units in Hazleton, Pottsville and Tamaqua.

Divers spent nearly 12 hours in the water Thursday and were preparing to stop rescue operations about 8:30 p.m. when the body was seen.

Mr. Thomas was married to the former Bertha Blair, Norristown. The couple has five children, Michelle, Lori, Bernadette, Denise and Howard Jr., all at home.

District Attorney Criticized by Judges

Intent of the statistics was to show that there's more than enough work to keep a district attorney busy full-time. The judges also pointed out that the post of district attorney pays an annual salary of more than $20,000.

Additionally, they said, he is responsible for a staff of five full-time assistant district attorneys and seven part-time assistants and an annual budget of $468,000.

Growing Black Resentment May End Life of Paradise in Rhodesia

BY PETER R. WEBB
Newsweek Feature Service

SALISBURY, Rhodesia—In Rhodesia, white is beautiful.

White salaries are beautiful. White housing is beautiful. White cost-of-living is beautiful. But, in contrast, black facts of life are often ugly in a country where virtually every aspect of existence is colored by race.

Statistics never tell the whole story. But Rhodesia's statistics provide a graphic outline of how the white few live well while the black majority sometimes does well to live.

Blacks outnumber whites 20 to 1 (5.2 million to 250,000). But black unemployment outnumbers white more than 200 to 1 (100,000 to 451). Average white annual income is $4,345, ten times the black average of $436.

GARDEN OF EDEN

These figures, along with others, produce a kind of Garden-of-Eden society for whites staffed by a servant class of blacks. In the better-class suburbs here, one in three families has its own swimming pool and nearly all have black servants earning $4 to $7 for a 6-day week.

Steak costs less than $1 a pound, a 5-room house rents for $91 a month and a bottle of fine Scotch runs $6—one week's salary for the servant sent to fetch it. Along with bargain prices, full employment and maids for the asking, white Rhodesians in this capital enjoy the fringe benefit of one of the world's lowest urban cost-of-living indexes. Of 35 major cities, only Dublin, Belgrade and Moscow are cheaper to live in than Salisbury.

All these material blessings, of course, rest on a foundation of racism. But when a Rhodesian sociologist was recently asked how long it takes a new white arrival to accept the racial and economic status quo, he replied:

"Oh, about half an hour."

Increasingly, blacks are not accepting it. In March, a British commission surveyed black reaction to a so-called compromise plan for eventual Rhodesian independence from England. Rhodesia broke away from the mother country six years ago, partly in protest against Whitehall's objection to Rhodesia's racial policies.

The compromise called for black-white political equality in the very distant future. And blacks overwhelmingly rejected it with a flurry of riots that left 14 of them dead.

SHATTERED IMAGE

Blacks are unhappy about everything from working as domestics while whites splash in their pools to educational inequality. No blacks hold administrative jobs in the country's well-paid civil service. Trade unions and professional associations bar them, forcing them into menial jobs and dead-end careers.

Despite the 20-to-1 black-white ratio, Rhodesia spends the same amount on educating numerically fewer white children as it does on blacks—$25 million. The result is inferior black education that inevitably perpetuates a black population short on the skills needed to compete in the modern world.

But beyond political power and material gains is bitter black knowledge of prevailing white attitudes. For example, whites like to play what they call the "munt game," often within earshot of servants. "Munt" is a derogatory white term for Africans. Questions and answers go like this:

"What is an African politician?"

"Embezzle-munt."

"What is a very light-skinned African?"

"An improve-munt."

And so on.

Individual white Rhodesians take pride in their efforts to "uplift" the blacks. Some ladies conduct schools and clinics. An ex-British Army officer who runs a ranch says that his black and white workers are "a sort of family—a United Nations."

But the more prevalent attitude is echoed by one veteran white settler here from his vantage point inside the controlling majority.

"The blacks don't know what's good for them, man," he says. "They can't run this country. All they're good for is drinking and breaking up their own townships."

WHITE SCHEDULE

So the country continues to run on a white schedule as if the beautiful life could never end. Black nannies are always available to care for the white children when parents relax in Salisbury's restricted clubs. Money pours in from flourishing production and trade. The superb climate does not change, the countless swimming pools brim with clear water and suburban gardens bloom year-round under the hands of practiced African servants.

It all moved one visitor, aware of the rising tide of black nationalism, to comment: "A week spent among the Salisbury whites is like staying in a prosperous garden suburb inhabited almost exclusively by victims of frontal lobotomy."

Space Age Aids Industry

Lunar vehicles and the 1973 model automobiles soon to be unveiled might seem to have little in common, but the earth instrument of mobility is becoming more like its space counterpart. In the years ahead, the similarity could become striking.

The comparison has nothing to do with speed or appearance but with the materials from which the vehicles are made. Space age materials are opening a new world of industrial potential, and nowhere is it more promising than in the vehicular field. Consider this dream car of the future:

Powered by solar batteries, the vehicle produces neither noise nor fumes and costs almost nothing to operate. It is made of a collapsible combination of plastic and metal which absorbs the most severe shock without damage.

It is covered by a paint which changes color at the will of the owner, making possible not only a limitless decoration scheme but colors which will either induce or repel heat with the season.

The only obstacle which prevents bringing this car from the indefinite future to the present is the application of principles already discovered. All of the features described above have been used on space vehicles. They are only a drop in the bucket of revolutionary inventions produced by the space age.

Making use of available breakthroughs is becoming as much of a problem as basic research. Much of the difficulty lies in absorbing the onslaught of new ideas, techniques and materials produced by the successful $100 billion project to place men on the moon.

There are many obstacles impeding the use by industry of space inventions. Some are not made available for security reasons, others are so far removed from contemporary application it will require years for industry to evolve a practical application for them.

But the overriding obstacle is cost. In the space program, relative cost is a minor consideration.

What NASA proved in its moon project is that anything is possible if one is willing to pay the cost. Industry cannot indulge in such fiscal pyrotechnics.

It will have its solar-powered car when it becomes economically feasible, and not before.

Boating Safety

With more boats taking to the water every year, there have been fears that pleasure boating might go the way of pleasure driving. But tightened boating regulations appear to be producing beneficial results.

One summer's gain hardly can be viewed as a task accomplished, but the record is encouraging and there is reason to think that the cooperation of boatmen has been a contributing factor along with stricter rules and enforcement.

If motorists can be persuaded to use the same good sense, conditions may improve on the highways, too.

Mini-Indonesia

Is Mickey Mouse an agent provocateur after all? Mrs. Tien Suharto, wife of Indonesia's president, was so taken with Mickey and his Disneyland palace that she's planning a takeoff called Indonesia in Miniature. The tab — to be raised privately — may top $30 million.

Critics who object, pointing to the country's $5 billion debt, are harassed, beaten, even jailed. Suharto, in a recent temper, said he would not hesitate to use military force to put down organized opposition, if it develops.

Mrs. Suharto hopes it won't come to this, but she is determined to go ahead. Indonesians may as well simmer down and hope they can afford a ticket.

The Worry Clinic

Home Remedy Termed Best

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

It dealt with the simple dry cell doorbell buzzer device to waken the bed-wetting child.

With a couple of squares of ordinary screen wire placed under the child's hips, and two narrow strips beneath his legs, the mild electric shock wakens the child when the first drops of urine filter down between those two squares.

This simple shock wakens him, much as the alarm clock arouses his sleepy dad in the morning.

"Dr. Crane's plan," protested an irate woman, typical of the sentimental Social Service case workers, "is a parody of muddled thinking and outmoded ideas.

Then she suggests that such youngsters should be sent to psychiarists.

TYPICAL HORROR

And affects the typical horror of the bureaucratic fraternity at any simple home remedy that would save $25 psychiatric fees and eliminate the need for more welfare workers.

And to demand that most bed-wetters are due to serious emotional disturbances that require costly psychiatric seances, is a sop to the tie-up between social agencies, psychiatry and tax-supported bureaucracies that bleed you laymen of extra taxes!

"Pat my back; then I'll pat your back," is the deft way by which such braintrusters try to remain on the backs of taxpayers.

Imagine the idiocy of saying that daddy must also see a psychiatrist because he ignores his alarm clock

Yet that is exactly a comparable situation to the bed-wetter's refusal to heed his urinary bladder signals.

Both situations are simply an example of ignoring warning signals.

Daddy doesn't want to get up from his pleasant sleep and set foot upon the cold floor.

Is this a sign of dangerous psychiatric symptoms that require his laying out $25 per visit to the psychiatrist's couch?

Similarly, the bed-wetting child has learned to ignore the pain signals from his bladder so he can also avoid stepping out upon the cold winter floor en route to the bathroom.

PAIN SIGNALS

And those internal pain signals are in the same sensory category as the external pain of his legs when his first few drops of urine complete the circuit and give him a stinging skin sensation.

Today we have far too many people of the bureaucratic ilk who want national health insurance and a psychiatrist for every school child.

They lack horse sense. And are naive regarding zooming tax costs.

For they haven't been out on the rigorous "firing line" of our "free enterprise" system where they must produce corn and wheat or shoes or machines and other vital merchandise.

So send for the "N-Uroclast" booklet and see how to stop bed-wetting even in one night. Enclose a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. Write to Dr. Crane in care of The Mercury.

There are five errors in the following story. How many can you find?

John Grey, president of Gibbstown Council, was named to fill the uninspired term of John Doah as mayor of Gibbstown.

Doah resigned because he is moving from the community.

Gray, 55, has been a councilman since 1964. A tall, balding man, he is married and is the father of three sons, Matthew, Mark, Luke and Philip.

He will serve until 1974.

"At this time, I expect to run for re-election," he said. He is a republican.

ANSWERS

1. The "unexpired" term. 20 points.
2. "Grey" is spelled differently in second paragraph. 20 points.
3. There is no word, "balding." 20 points.
4. "Four" not "three" sons named. 20 points.
5. "Republican" should be capitalized. 20 points.

Nixon's Viet Stand Commended

3 Cheers

To the Editor: The President's address to the people concerning the Vietnam situation has finally caused me to state publicly what I have felt and voiced privately for a long time.

For over 20 years, we have watched Communism consume country after country, imposing near-slavery, death, and humiliation on millions of peoples throughout the world in the name of "liberation". I have personally suffered through four presidents and myriad congressmen spouting socialism in the name of progress. I have watched Roman history painfully repeating itself in the name of innovation.

Ten years of rapists back on the streets, killers laughing at the law, property destruction in the name of freedom, and lawyers with no conscience getting fat off the public have left me, literally, sick to the stomach.

Subsidies for growing weeds while people starve, union monopolies strangling the country, my wages paying prostitutes to have illegitimate children, congressmen taking my wages with one hand while giving themself a raise with the other, all leave me cold. Where is the spirit of our founding determination, individuality, and freedom? History has taught time and time again that Socialism, in any form, smothers all of these.

I give three strong, lusty cheers for President Nixon, a man who has the guts to stand for what he believes is right, regardless of the consequences.

I also ask that others who share my ideals let themselves be heard, by any means at their command. Heaven knows, we'll certainly hear from the other side of the fence. It is time we make ourselves heard, instead of sitting silently while the liberals, socialists, and fellow-travelers rub our faces in the dirt.

Those who value the ideas of a Constitution which has weathered the test of time better than any other instrument of government in written history, Stand up and be Counted.

Birdsboro JAMES C. SINK

Query

To the Editor: A question I would like to ask Elizabeth McCaslin. "If you have ever seen a woman and her babies sharing a room with rats and cockroaches, misery, filth, etc?" Mrs. McCaslin, maybe she wants her husband there with the rats. Of course I would suggest for her to find better living, let the husband stay with the cockroaches.

Thats liberation, I think. Even if better living would be found, the husband and the cockroaches would go too.

Never agree with me, only take what you think is good advice. I could be 100 per cent wrong.

As for politics, let the men have it, you know women can always say, "We ain't getting into the mess you started so you can blame all your mistakes on women."

Oh yes, there are filthy, dirty rats and cockroaches here in Pottstown. The Board of Health is men only, a woman is a secretary.

For the past four months a complaint has been given the Board of Health. Nothing. I think a woman charms them and the goofs go bananas.

She lives dirty and everyone has to like it. Oh yes, she doesn't pay her rent and I don't know even if she would be evicted, only sneak out in the middle of the night, like she did in the last three places.

The Board of Health of Pottstown would demand the property to be cleaned immediately or even sooner than that, as soon as she is out, but not while the pig is swallowing in the mud.

Pottstown DISGUSTED

Bravery

To the Editor: President Nixon had two choices. He could have pulled out all U. S. Forces from Vietnam and let the communists gloat over their victory.

Or, he could have shown bravery by ordering increasing bombing, more shelling and the mining of harbors.

Thank God he took the course he did.

He is not sending in any other troops but is still flexing the muscles of the United States.

I saw the peace-lover on TV last night. These anti-war, anti-violence groups were throwing rocks at police. They speak out of both sides of their mouths. The President didn't.

Pottstown JOHN T.

Supports Nixon

To the Editor: Now is the time for Americans to unite in support of our presidents actions in Vietnam, not because he is Richard Nixon, not because he is a Republican, but because he is the leader and commander in chief of our great country.

He has made a difficult but necessary decision on our nation's future course of action. I believe it was the wisest choice under present circumstances. Certainly it weighed heavily upon him, and all available facts and possible consequences were deeply considered beforehand.

Peace cannot be achieved unilaterally, but enslavement can be accomplished by merely surrendering to tyrants.

Our country, so abundantly endowed in all respects, continues to fulfill its moral responsibilities to less fortunate people throughout the world, and yet by this very action we help to preserve our wav of life here at home. Pray that our young men have not died in vain for freedom has always had to be defended. World communism and its ideology is still a threat. Ponder upon this next time you worship God.

In support of our president, I say, "Hail to the chief."

Pottstown RAYMOND D. KOHLER

War

To the Editor: Just a comment on an interesting article by The Rev. Werner Wendel that appeared in the April 25 issue of the Pottstown Mercury.

O sob, sob sob for the wretched inhabitants of the Peoples Republic of China. My heart truly bleed for the poor, poor souls. Right up to the moment they thrust a dagger into your heart, they remain the simple, harmless Chinamen. Heaven forbid! They wouldn't harm a fly. A fly no, but ahahaha!

I'm sure that if Rev. Wendel would have lived among the Huns of grand, old Uncle Attila, he would have thought them to be a kind, gentle, and peace loving people; there's no doubt about that!

"They (the Chinese) don't want war," the Rev. Wendel proclaims as if he just discovered some new found truth that has, up to now, been concealed from all thinking men. Of course the people of China don't want war; the people of the U.S.S.R. don't want war; neither did the people of Germany in 1939 want war, but that as I hope you dolts realize, did not prevent their Fuehrer from launching his war!

Are there actually individuals who believe that a people, and in an authoritarian state at that, are able to decide whether or not their country should go to war! Sheer naive, or blindness, or stupidity, or the individuals in question are . . . (need I mention what I have in mind).

The unpleasant reality of the situation is this: If the leaders of the Peoples Republic want war, there will, I can assure you of that, be war.

Don't let yourselves be duped into believing the contrary, my dear rabble. But you will, you will, as all good, mindless dinosaurs will.

Sound Transmission Beginning Described

By W. EDMUNDS CLAUSSEN
Area Historian

Ten years ago high fidelity in long playing records probabily hit its peak. Perhaps more records are being sold today, but we don't know that. What we are stressing is the enthusiasm among certain men and women who must have sound so perfect that when a mouse squeek is recorded it must play back with sufficient fidelity in tone so that a knowledgeable person can discern whether that squeek was made by a male or female mouse.

Some people tnen sat glued with their heads inside their multi-unit sound reproduction systems. When they selected a record, they wore gloves on top of gloves in order to prevent damage to their discs.

Oh! the pleasure of it all! To have lived through the birth of the crystal set, to have heard the first news over KDKA, been soothed as a child by Uncle Wip, to have heard the great Wanamaker organ peal forth at Christmas time over WOO, heard the opening night of the Lit Brother's station, WDAR, and carried an acknowledgement and membership card issued by the Kansas City Nighthawks. To have enjoyed this early radio excitement, and now high fidelity also!

All of us did miss the very beginning, and for the benefit of those who might care, we present the personal observations of a reporter on the Providence Bulletin who was present on that great day when sound transmission actually began. And we quote from the writings of a scribe who witnessed this day of all days:

"We were recently introduced to Mr. E. H. Johnson, of New York, Mr. Edison's associate. He was sitting before an instrument, of which the most prominent feature was a wooden cylinder four inches in diameter and a foot or more in length, with a crank at one end.

"Round this cylinder a strip of tinfoil was fastened, and against this tinfoil pressed a little pointed rod, or style, projecting from the centre of a thin metal plate or disc, which formed the bottom of a short tube or mouthpiece. The mouthpiece and the plate are in the same relative position as in the telephone. Any word spoken into the mouthpiece of the phonograph would therefore set the plate and style vibrating and indent the tinfoil.

"This is the whole instrument, except that the axis of the cylinder is a fine threaded screw, and that when it revolves the point of the style therefore necessarily describes a spiral on the tinfoil, impressing on it a shallow groove precisely corresponding to the track of the style or pitch of the screw.

"To facilitate this action, a spiral groove is permanently inscribed on the surface of the wooden cylinder. The tinfoil, under the style, is therefore without solid support, and easily yields when the cylinder is turned, to the constant pressure of the style, or to any sound vibrations communicated to it.

"Mr. Johnson responded to the introduction by turning the crank to the cylinder, and at the same time talking into the mouthpiece as follows: 'How do you do? How are all the people in Providence? Mary had a little lamb; its fleece was white as snow; and everywhere that Mary went the lamb was sure to go. Ha! ha! ha! (cough, cough, cough.)! Then, in conclusion, Mr. Johnson sang a verse of 'Uncle Ned.'

"The cylinder was turned about sixty times during this rigmarole, and about four inches of the tinfoil were spirally and regularly grooved by the style. If the grooves were closely examined they were found to be filled with elevations and depressions, representing the sound vibrations of the plate and the style.

"Mr. Johnson then moved the cylinder back to the starting point, and readjusted the style to the tinfoil. He then held a rought pasteboard trumpet, or cornucopia, to the mouthpiece, to throw out the sound, and turned the crank. The identical words spoken and sung by him into the mouthpiece were said and sung over again by the machine, with every tone in cadence, and the quality of the voice well rendered.

"The machine laughed and coughed, also, perfectly. Our friendly exhibitor then ran the cyinder back to the starting a second time, and turned the crank very fast. The same words now rattled out with explosive rapidity. The laughing was hysterical and the cough spasmodic to the last degree. Then, a third time, Mr. Johnson ran the cylinder back and turned the crank, this time very slowly. The same words drawled out hoarsely, the laughing was very sad, and the cough was lingering. 'Uncle Ned' was struck on a lower key and was very lugubrious.

"The articulations and quality in this performance were full as good as the telephone six months ago, or as good as much of the telephone talking today, while it was several times as loud. The words could be heard throughout a noisy front room on a New York street. . . The instrument perfected and moved by clockwork will undoubtedly reproduce every condition of the human voice, including the whole world of expression in speech and song.

"Now, what applications can we anticipate? Clearly these: The sheet of tinfoil or other plastic material receiving the impressions of sound will be stereotyped or electroplated so as to be multiplied and made durable, or the plastic tube will be made of material, plastic when used and hardening afterward.

"Thin sheets of paper mache, or various substances which soften by heat, would be of this character. Having provided thus for the durability of the phonotype plate (a better name than phonograph' it will be very easy to make separable from the cylinder producing it and attachable to a corresponding cylinder anywhere and at any time. Friends at a distance will then send to each other phonotype letters which will talk at any time in the friend's voice when put upon the instrument."

It is to be noted that no references were made to tweeters, to woofers, to channel separation, to multi-amp amplification, to dusting brushes to be used in the light gathering of particles from the grooves, nor, heaven forbid: to the wearing of freshly laundered, white and lintless gloves!

The Pennsylvania Story

Tyrone Gets New Lease on Life

By MASON DENISON

HARRISBURG — Last year hundreds of Tyrone residents gathered on the main street of that job-stricken Blair County community for a group photograph. Nothing radically unusual there, perhaps, but the photo's appearance as a full page ad in the Wall Street Journal, announcing "This Town for Hire," was a new approach to solving an area's unemployment problem.

Looks like it worked. Last week the ex-paper mill town got its third new industry since "hiring itself out" when Alcoa revealed it will begin producing kitchen and bathroom modules in Tyrone this summer. They'll be marketed mostly to eastern U.S. housing developments.

Alcoa is the latest — possibly the biggest — entry in the exploding modular housing industry. In Pennsylvania alone more than 45,000 jobs have been created by the fantastic growth of the mobile home and modular business. (Modulars, generally speaking, differ from mobile homes only in their configuration. Both are built on assembly lines and benefit from the obvious advantages of controlled factory conditions.)

A major dilemma of the industry — absence of statewide regulations on design and construction — was dissolved last week by a pair of bills passed by the State Legislature establishing manufacturing standards for mobile homes and modulars.

These supercede local regulations which can add to the cost of a factory-built. It's akin to General Motors having to build a different version of the same sedan for licensing in each municipality.

Raphael Silver, a New Yorker whose firm, Hodgson Houses Inc., contributes substantially through its two Berwick factories to Pennsylvania's annual output of 70,000 mobile homes and modulars, calls factory-builts "job creators" and speaks for the industry in his welcome of the new legislation. Retail sales in the state exceed a half billion dollars yearly and, Silver points out, such controls have been long needed.

He says most factory-builts are available for less than the average built-on-site house. This enables more people to buy homes. Increased sales boost housing production, which creates more jobs for mobile home and modular builders, suppliers, service industries, mortgage companies, etc.

As built-on-site construction costs climb, the factory-builts will appeal to more buyers. And one objection sometimes heard about factory-builts is their less imaginative design (when compared with "built-on-sites"), which should be scuttled with the unveiling of the "Triad" modular and others seen by thousands at this year's Pennsylvania Mobile Housing Show in the Farm Show Building here in Harrisburg.

Factory-built housing — the coming thing?

For Tyrone, Berwick and other towns abandoned by companies once their principal employer, the industry can be salvation for the jobless.

For the consumer, the new state code of standards should make factory-built homes even more attractive.

On the other hand, for those who prefer the custombuilt home, they're still available — and probably will be ad infinitum!

Mary Haworth's Mail

Godmother Causes Crisis with Children

Dear Mary Haworth:

I am the mother of twins, age 5, a boy and a girl. They always receive many gifts on special days, being the only grandchildren on both sides of our family.

When relatives and friends bring gifts to one twin, they always bring something for the other twin also. With one exception, my daughter's godmother, a close relative of mine.

She brings a birthday gift only for the girl — none for the boy. She says she can't afford a gift for him too, which I know isn't true. It hurts me and upsets him (he cries) when she hands a gift to the girl and overlooks him.

The boy's godmother, who is just a family friend, always brings both children something on their birthday, which makes them both feel good and heads off jealousy.

What can be done about the girl's godmother — regardless of who gets hurt? My son is too young to understand why she gives gifts to his sister and not to him on their birthday.

I'm beginning to feel I should put aside her gifts to the girl and not let them be used, worn or played with (as the case may be). Please help a hurt mother and son.

G. S.

Dear G. S.:

I'd say this is a case of the pot calling the kettle black. It is meanly inconsiderate of the girl's godmother not to bring a suitable gift to the twin brother too, on her godchild's birthday. But it is equally an offense against good conduct for you to be bleeding openly about her failure in this respect.

The civilized hostess antidote to her mistake is to have a boy-type gift, bought and wrapped by you, set aside, within reach, to hand to the boy, simultaneously as she gives her gift to the girl.

You may say, in effect, "And here is your gift, Bud, to match Sister's gift from Aunt Kate" (the godmother). No need to say it's from you or the family or whoever. Just ease through the moment, making as few waves as possible.

M. H.

Dear Mary Haworth:

I am 45 and my husband is approaching retirement. I love this city, its cultural projects, our comfortable house, my activities and many friends. But five years ago my husband began an affair with a colleague's wife — a shock and a scandal to our circle. She is very aggressive, we belong to the same clubs, and I am under continual strain because of her.

My question: Should I encourage my husband to retire here? Or persuade him to spend our retirement in a new scene? I realize now he's been chronically unfaithful. My anguish has been beyond description. I turned to professional counsel (secular and religious) and decided to stick it out. Please advise.

K. V.

Dear K. V.:

I think you and your husband should tackle retirement in a situation that offers both of you something worthwhile to do, that keeps your minds alert and your time productively occupied. If you can find that opportunity where you are, then stay. If not, move.

Doctor Prescribes Therapy in Oils

The doctor sat among his friends. They were having dinner at the Players Club. The conversation was swift and broad and witty, as it is when men play oratorical table tennis. The doctor was 70. He looked 55; a dark fashion plate. His name was Richard H. Hoffmann, and he practiced psychiatry longer than anyone else in America. He was also a writer, a raconteur, a poet and, alas, a sentimentalist.

He studied Horace's right hand. Horace was a great American artist. He painted women who graced magazine covers. Now, in the midst of the jokes and the laughter, Horace's right hand was doodling with a pencil. He was drawing sketches on the white tablecloth. They were all of the same woman: his wife.

Horace was a tall slender man who looked like a Texas cowboy. He had big hands and dunes of lemon-colored hair. His wife was called Red. She was beautiful, and he loved her so much that, when he mentioned her name, his throat tightened and his voice came up husky. Red was more than his wife. She was his saint, his breath, his life. He did not know that he was drawing her face on the tablecloth.

When he earned a lot of money, Horace surprised Red. He bought a beautiful home for her in Connecticut. It was winter and the house looked like a pearl in swirls of ermine. Behind the hill was a barn. Horace set a studio up in the hayloft. There he could paint the faces and figures of beautiful models without disturbing Red.

One day a bum came to the door. He looked like a man whom a bath, a shave and a hot meal would make respectable. The bum was an old classmate of Horace. He, too, had been an artist—a pretty good one. Somewhere along the line, a gear had slipped, and Johnny's career had halted. All he asked of Horace was a handout. A few dollars.

Horace said no. He could not do this to an old friend. Instead, he offered Johnny a chance to become a fine artist again. He would build a bedroom in the barn. He would buy paints and brushes and palettes and canvas for models. He would feed him and house him and give him spending money. All on one condition—no more liquor.

Johnny thought about it, and accepted. The only one who didn't like the arrangement was Red. She felt that Johnny was worthless. But, as long as he remained in the barn, she had no objection.

The bum did all right. It took all of one winter, but the hands became steady, the mind became eager, the work was good for the soul. Now and then, Horace went into town to have dinner at the Players with Dr. Hoffmann. And drew sketches of Red.

One morning Horace got home to Connecticut. He couldn't find Red. He couldn't find Johnny. All he found was a note. It was simply stated: "Dear Horace: I've known all about you and those models for years. Johnny is different. We are going away together. No use looking. You won't find us. If you want me to retain a shred of respect for you, forget us. Red."

Horace went downhill fast. He did no more painting. He never visited the beautiful house in Connecticut. He drank. And when he drank, he cried. He was maudlin and sickening, and no one wanted to bother with him—except Dr. Hoffmann. The artist was helped into the office at 870 Park Ave., and the doctor studied the ruddy eyes, the palsied hands, the putty complexion.

The doctor talked softly and slowly. "You are trying to drink yourself to death," he said, "because you are in pain. In the past seven months, you have become an acute alcoholic. If you were a chronic alcoholic, it would take a long time to make you well. But you and I know what your pain is, and if you will do what I tell you, you can become well almost overnight."

"Give me a little drink," Horace said.

"Will you do as I tell you?"

"Depends."

"You're an artist, Horace. You can be rid of your pain by facing it. I want you to sit down and do a painting of Red and Johnny in a tight embrace. Will you do that for me?"

The artist stood slowly. His face twisted into derision. "If you weren't so old," he said to the doctor, "I'd knock you out of that chair." Horace staggered out. He was back a month later, almost to the day. He was shaved and clean. He looked shaky. He said that, after he had left the doctor's office, he had been unable to sleep.

From under his arm he took a portfolio. He unrolled it and put it on the doctor's desk. There, in bold colors, Red and Johnny were in a happy embrace. Horace lowered his head. The doctor put his arm around his old friend. In two years time, Horace became a good artist again.

Strategy of Enemy In Invading Assessed

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — A signal from the Front:

A friend of Gen. Creighton Abrams' staff writes, as of April 29, "The situation in Quang Tri Province, the northernmost, looks grave. It was merely serious until yesterday when the Communists renewed their assault on the city. It's a toss-up now as to what may happen.

"I think the North Vietnamese leadership decided to invade the south earlier than expected because they feared South Vietnam's rapidly growing strength. The Communists probably felt that if they waited until July-August-September (as President Thieu thought they would) South Vietnam might be too much for them. Also, they probably wanted to try for a military victory while the U. S. still had a sizable contingent of troops here, knowing we would not put them into combat.

"If successful, North Vietnamese propaganda could crow that the mighty United States was unable to stop them.

"The Soviets, at least to some extent, probably influenced Hanoi's decision to strike now. If North Vietnam won its gamble, by taking significant pieces of South Vietnam, President Nixon's position would be weakened at the Moscow summit."

* * *

Gen. Giap, North Vietnamese military commander who beat the French at Dienbienphu with an old-fashioned encirclement maneuver, seems to be paraphrasing Gen. Douglas MacArthur's classic military thrust at Inchon in Korea.

Giap is, in effect, trying to cut the South Vietnam forces down the middle of the country, dissecting head from tail. That's precisely what the daring Inchon raid achieved. MacArthur's was seaborne; Giap's is taking place on land. If he were alive and in command, MacArthur now would be hammering at the President and Joint Chiefs to permit him to apply the Inchon treatment to North Vietnam, above Hanoi.

I have it straight from the Hallmark cards people, impartial observers, that the dear lady who invented Mother's Day — don't miss it, this Sunday — died at age 84, a spinster.

She was apparently a dear person named Anna M. Jarvis of Grafton, W. Va. She persuaded pastors in her home town and in Philadelphia, where there wasn't much else to do of a Sunday afternoon 64 years ago, to hold church services in honor of Mums. The custom muddled along until 1914, when President Woodrow Wilson proclaimed Mother's Day as worthy of national observation.

It now ranks fourth on the greeting card hit parade, trailing Christmas, St. Valentine's Day and Easter. Hallmark estimates that 200,000,000 Mother's Day cards will be sent in this country — which doesn't have 200,000,000 mothers, incidentally. The sentiment has spread elsewhere, so the world count is not obtainable. Mums is hailed now in Austria, Canada, Mexico, Japan, the West Indies, parts of Africa and in most of South and Central America.

Some nice sentiments on the Hallmark cards this year: "God can't be always everywhere and therefore He made mothers." (Sir Edwin Arnold, 1832-1904); "A mother is not a person to lean on, but a person to make leaning unnecessary" (Dorothy Canfield Fisher, 1879-1958).

The shade of spinster Jarvis has been tormented through the years by claims in behalf of other inventors of the day that is so sacred to cardmakers, flourists and candymakers. There has been a "Mothering Day" in England — the fourth Sunday in Lent, since the 17th century. Julia Ward Howe, author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" is said to have suggested a Mother's Day in 1872. Others: Kentucky schoolteacher Mary Towles Sasseen (1887) began yearly musical programs saluting mothers; schoolteacher Harriet S. Lee of Woodland, Calif., proposed a national Mother's Day in 1903. In 1904, Frank E. Haring, South Bend, Ind., called for a Mother's Day in a speech to the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

I'm standing by old Mrs. Jarvis, if anybody wants to fight.

Al Carrell

The Super Handyman

Dear Al:

One thing I have found helpful in protecting tools in the tool box is to provide many of them with protective sleeves. The sleeves are made from sections of shirt cardboard, folded over the tool and stapled together. I have sleeves for all my screwdrivers, tin snips, files, punches and anything else where the tip should be protected.

Dear Al:

I fell heir to several large barrels and used them for storage. This was fine until I had to move them. With no handles, this wasn't an easy thing to do. I added removable handles by putting a pair of C-clamps on each side of the barrel. These allowed the barrels to be picked up, moved, and then the handles moved to the next barrel.

A. H.

Also a good way to "handle" old oil drums or metal garbage cans that don't have handles.

Dear Super:

Even redwood planter boxes can rot from the moisture in the soil inside them. The way I prevent this is by lining the planter box with a large plastic suit bag from the dry cleaners. Then I put the dirt in and can trim off the excess plastic with a pair of scissors. This keeps the dirt from coming in contact with the wood.

D. A.

A SUPER HINT — Many folks use the vacuum cleaner spray attachment for painting. It's not the world's best spray painter, but it does all right for some jobs. Before you use it, make sure the hose is free from all dirt and dust, or it can end up coming out in your paint. Run a string through the hose and tie a rag on one end. Pull the rag through the hose, and this will loosen any dirt that may be stuck to the walls of the hose. Then connect the hose and vacuum the loose dirt out. Disconnect and pull a damp cloth through the hose. This ought to make for a better paint job.

* * *

GREENER THUMBS — In case you missed it, I have prepared a free sheet on how to start your own compost heap. All you have to do is send your request to me here at the paper, but please be sure to include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. It will be a nice thing to do for your yard.

SHOP TALK — Putting up the framework for a house or an "addition" has been made considerably easier by the use of framing braces. These metal pieces come in several forms and are used to join studs, joists, plates and headers without having to toenail or cut special joints. The brackets are designed for every conceivable type of framing joint. They are prepunched so all you have to do is fit the piece in place and drive the nails in. Use of framing braces will not only speed up the job, but will usually result in stronger construction.

Hijacker's Parachute Found

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Searchers have found a parachute harness and jumpsuit they believe were discarded by the hijacker of an Eastern Airlines plane after he bailed out over Honduras with $303,000 in ransom, the government said Thursday night.

Farmers in the area of northern Honduras where the articles were found told government agents they saw a man sitting on the ground counting money before he disappeared into the countryside, the National Investigation Department said.

It said the man's shoulder and hands were injured, but a search of hospitals and clinics in the area produced no information on him.

Capt. Carlos Rene Sagastume, director of the department, said agents found the jumpsuit and harness Wednesday on Sorocon Mountain, at the border of Atlantida and Yoro counties.

Residents said the man they saw counting money carried a back pack and a small suitcase, and wiped sweat off his face with tissues. Agents said they found used tissues in the area.

Evacuation Is Underway In Hanoi

SAIGON (AP) — Much of Hanoi has been evacuated, a Canadian official said Friday.

"A major evacuation of residents has taken place," said David Jackson of the International Control Commission, who makes periodic trips to Hanoi. "It has been going on since the outset of recent hostilities."

HOUSING CODE LAWS

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gov. Shapp signed into law Thursday bills that establish a statewide code for factory-built housing, and set safety standards for mobile homes.

"The Industrialized Housing Act, by establishing a statewide code for factory built dwellings, removes the obstacle formerly presented by diverse and varying local building codes," Shapp said in a statement.

POPE ISSUES PLEA

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Voicing concern over the woreening of the Vietnam conflict, Pope Paul VI pleaded Thursday with international leaders to avoid "at all costs" a showdown that might plunge the world into war.

He urged the parties to the war in Vietnam to resume negotiations.

WILL SHOOT TO KILL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe said Thursday U.S. air security officers encountering hijackers will shoot to kill if necessary.

Volpe, speaking before the National Press Club, was asked for his views on the slaying of air pirates at Tel Aviv by Israeli officers.

SPACE SHUTTLE BILL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate beat back decisively an attempt Thursday to kill the reuseable space shuttle, rejecting claims it will lead to the unplanned spending of scores of billions of dollars.

COMMISSION CONFESSES

WASHINGTON (AP) — An embarrassed Price Commission confessed Thursday that it has dug out of its own files the reports that it had accused 51 companies of failing to file.

But more than 300 of the nation's largest firms still face price cuts and possible legal action unless they get tardy reports in by this weekend, the commission said.

AUTHORIZES CONSTRUCTION

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton announced Thursday his decision to authorize construction of the controversial Trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

An attorney for environment groups, anticipating Morton's action, said it would be challenged in court.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills cast himself in the role of a compromise candidate Thursday and named a campaign manager to line up delegate votes for the presidential nomination at the Democratic national convention.

33 More Bodies Are Found in Mine

KELLOGG, Idaho (AP) — Thirty-three more bodies were discovered in the fire-wracked Sunshine silver mine Thursday, raising the death toll to 84 and leaving only seven miners still missing.

When Marvin Chase, general manager of the mine, announced that 17 more bodies had been found late Thursday, grieving relatives of miners began filing from the compound near the main mine entrance where they had been waiting.

Earlier Thursday 14 bodies were found.

Chase said rescue teams would continue to search areas where it was believed the seven miners still missing were working before fire swpt through the mine last week.

Royersford Motorist Injured in Accident

A Royersford motorist was injured in a one-car accident late Thursday afternoon near Boyertown in Colebrookdale Township.

Medical Center North said the victim, Harold Long, 50, 679 Ridge Pike, Royersford, was treated for cuts inside his mouth and bruises of the left side of his chest and released.

He was taken to the center in a Boyertown ambulance.

Warm Weather, Sun Expected To Stay Today

A spell of bright, warm May weather hit Pottstown Thursday after a week of generally wet or hazy days.

Golfers reported record weekday crowds on area links, some even giving up in despair because of the long waits at each hole.

A high of 76 under cloudless skies brought housewives out of doors to work in their flowerbeds and husbands were pressed into service after work to get the rapidly-growing grass cut.

Late afternoon brought out hordes of motorcyclists, baseball players and, on Lee Avenue, even a youth with a butterfly net.

The fine weather is expected to stay around today with clear skies and highs in the upper 70s, providing a warm welcome for the hundreds of Hill School alumni expected to arrive Friday for The Hill's annual alumni weekend.

Saturday will continue fair and warm, but clouds should arrive by Sunday bringing a chance of rain. The overcast will remain through Tuesday with occasional showers and afternoon highs near 70.

Offense Draws Fine

Driving while his license was suspended cost a local man $300 in Montgomery County Court.

Charles Wyatt, 826 High St., was ordered to pay the fine by Judge Vincent A. Cirillo after pleading guilty to the charge.

Wyatt was apprehended Oct. 6, 1971, by Pottstown Patrolman Dennis Oswald.

Two Autos Crash On North Haover

Police estimated damage at $1,350 following a two car accident on North Hanover Street, south of Fourth Street, Wednesday. There were no injuries.

Pottstown Patrolmen Charles McClincy said the accident occurred shortly before 4 p.m. when Michael Magliochetti, 421 Race St., Stowe, skidded into the rear of a car driven by Mrs. Jane Reider, 514 Vine St., Stowe.

According to McClincy, Mrs. Reider slowed to make a left turn onto Fourth Street when she was hit. Both vehicles were northbound on Hanover Street.

Mine Official Blames Neglect of Regulations for Flood Disaster

WASHINGTON (AP) — The West Virginia flood last February that killed more than 100 persons might have been averted had the Bureau of Mines enforced its own regulations, says a bureau official who headed the official investigation.

The flood occurred Feb. 26 when a mound of coal mine wastes, damming a mountain stream, broke under heavy rains and sent an estimated 21 million cubic feet of water cascading through the narrow Buffalo Valley below.

William R. Wayment, head of an Interior Department investigating team, said the Bureau of Mines missed opportunities to avoid the disaster by failing to:

—Live up to a 1967 pledge to watch such mounds for "unstable conditions that might endanger life."

The tragedy might have been averted, Wayment said in an interview, if the Bureau had done any of those three things.

Buffalo Mining Co. had dumped mine wastes 40 to 60 feet deep across a branch of Buffalo Creek to create a waste settling pond, which grew to a half-mile-long lake under heavy rain, Wayment's task force reported last March 12.

When the mound collapsed a wall of water destroyed the towns of Saunders and Lorado and wreaked havoc for some 17 miles.

Another seven persons are listed as missing and presumed dead.

The task force said responsibility for "the adequacy of water retention structures" generally lies "with a state agency." But it failed to mention two federal regulations making the Bureau of Mines responsible in some cases.

Bureau regulation 77.215 (e) states: "Refuse piles shall not be constructed so as to impede drainage or impound water."

William E. Davies, a department geologist who analyzed the disaster, said that the mound which broke was virtually identical to an officially recognized "refuse pile" downstream which did not impound any water.

"The only difference was in the direction," he said. "One went up the hollow, the other went across."

SEPARATE REPORT

In a separate report to the task force, Fred C. Walker, a former earth dam engineer with Interior's Bureau of Reclamation, said:

"These structures were created by persons completely unfamiliar with dam design, construction and materials and by construction methods that are completely unacceptable to engineers specializing in dam design."

Another bureau regulation requires weekly inspections of a water-retaining dam whose failure would endanger mine workers.

Bureau inspectors drove past the impoundment at least 22 times during the past year on their way to inspect underground mines but did not inspect the impoundment itself—even though it had broken once before.

Hollis M. Dole, assistant secretary of interior for mining resources, said the hazard was not foreseen because "there was no reason to believe the water would get that high."

But he admitted such heavy rains were not unusual in the area and could be expected on the average every two years.

Three weeks after the February flood, the Bureau of Mines cited the company for failing to make and record weekly inspections.

Wayment's report identified four flaws in the structure, any one of which could have caused the collapse: Saturation of the mound with water; an inadequately-protected overflow pipe; a poor foundation; and a weak spot at the point of the earlier failure.

Wayment said a person qualified to inspect dams probably could have spotted two or three of these flaws in advance.

Would the flood have been averted by such inspection?

"Potentially, that could be the case," said Wayment. "There sure would have been a hell of a lot better chance of its being averted."

In fact, the potential danger had been identified six years earlier, after a waste-heap collapse brought disaster to Aberfan, Wales.

Davies had spot-checked 38 coal mine waste heaps in West Virginia in 1966 and noted the flood danger when they were used to retain water. The mound that flooded the Buffalo Valley had not yet been built then.

Based on this survey, Stewart L. Udall, then secretary of the interior, wrote to West Virginia's governor and congressional delegation and assured them that "the Bureau of Mines will continue to observe mine dumps for possible critical conditions, and will receive counsel from the Geological Survey where unstable conditions that might endanger life are recognized."

However, Wayment said that the Bureau made no further effort to inspect waste piles until after last February's disaster.

Government Releases Survey on Narcotics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rougly 1.5 million American of high-school age and 700,000 adults say they've tried heroin at least once, a broad new government surve indicates.

This is 6 er cent of all oung people aged 12 through 17, and 0.5 per cent of adults 18 and over.

The findings, released Tuesday by the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse, also indicate:

—9.3 million Americans have tried hashish; 10 per cent of young people and 5 per cent of adults.

—4.7 million have tried LSD, peyote or mescalin, 8 per cent of young people and 2 per cent of adults.

—2.6 million have tried cocaine, 5 per cent of young people and 1 per cent of adults.

—3.7 million have tried methamphetamines, or "speed," for nonmedical purposes. This is 8 per cent of young people and 2 per cent of adults.

The findings are based on a survey of 3,186 Americans conducted for the commission last September and October by Response Analysis Corp. of Princeton, N.J.

MOST COMPREHENSIVE

The commission said it believes the survey to be the most comprehensive look ever taken at drug use in the United States.

Earlier this year the commission released findings from the same survey which showed that 24 million Americans have tried marijuana at least once, and 8.3 million continue to use it. This is 14 per cent of young people and 15 per cent of adults.

Tuesday's findings were the first to deal with use of other drugs.

The commission said the startling findings on heroin use by the young indicate a total of 1,467,840 young Americans have tried the drug.

One-half of one per cent of the adults 18 and over reported trying heroin, indicating 687,040 have tried it nationwide.

The commission said it has no information on how many persons who try heroin or other drugs continue to use them.

Three Persons Hurt In Skippack Crash

Three ersons were injured, one seriously, Thursday afternoon in a two vehicle collision on Route 73 in Skippack Township.

Karen Druckenmiller, 20, 723 Washington St., Royersford, driver of one car; Richard Seybold, 46, Philadelphia, a passenger in the Druckenmiller auto, and Albert Wolfson, 46, Elkins Park, driver of the other vehicle, were taken in a Skippack ambulance to Monggomery Hospital, Norristown.

Wolfson, who was pinned in the wreckage of his truck for nearly 30 minutes, suffered head and chest injuries in the accident and was admitted to the intensive care unit.

A hospital spokesman said Wolfson was in guarded condition Thursday night.

Miss Druckenmiller suffered a fractured leg and multiple contusions. She was listed in satisfactory condition Thursday night.

Seybold was admitted with multiple cuts and bruises and leg injuries. He also was reported in satisfactory condition.

State police from Limerick said the accident occurred shortly after 1 p.m. when Miss Druckenmiller lost control of her car after crossing a crest in the road near Cross Road.

Trooper David Motko said Miss Druckenmiller was driving east on Route 73 znd after reaching the top of the small hill, saw several cars stopped in her lane waiting to turn onto Cross Road.

Miss Druckenmiller attempted to stop, but skidded out of control, crossing into the westbound lane into the path of the oncoming Wolfson truck, Motko said.

The trooper estimated damage at $2,000 and said charges may be filed pending further investigation.

Local Man Injured In Two Car Crash

A Pottstown man suffered minor injuries Wednesday afternoon in a two car accident at South Franklin and Apple streets.

Lester Bell, 153 Sunrise Lane, was taken in a Good Will ambulance to Medical Center North where he was treated for bruises of the forehead and back.

Police said the accident occurred at 4 p.m. when Rabbi Herman Grossman pulled through a stop sign into the side of the Bell auto.

Patrolman Charles Wagg said Rabbi Grossman was driving west on Apple Street and Bell was southbound on Franklin Street at the time of the accident. Rabbi Grossman was charged with failure to yield the right of way.

Beren Renamed Leader Of County Republicans

Daniel E. Beren, incumbent chairman of the Montgomery County Republican Committee, was reelected to that post Thursday night at a reoganization meeting at Westover Golf Club, Jeffersonville.

Beren's nomination was seconded by William J. Boden, Pottstown's Republican leader.

Others elected were Ann Brecker, vice chairman; Andrew Y. Michie, treasurer; and six incumbent secretaries, Olive L. Banks, Mabel C. Detweiler, Doris L. Freeman, Robert J. Hannum, Harold J. Kerper, Worcester, and Katherin M. Meloy, Lower Pottsgrove.

Campout Planned By Pottstown YMCA

Youths, ages 8 to 13, will leave the YMCA 5:30 p.m. and return 12:30 p.m. Saturday. Activities will include, hiking, archery, boating, canoeing, games and a campfire.

Lawrence Cargill, camp director, will be in charge.

Norco Boy Named Art Show Winner

Among winners in the first phase of an environmental art show sponsored by Green Valleys Association was James Cisick, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cisick, 871 S. Keim St., North Coventry.

Paradoxical Sen. Sam Ervin Demonstrates Dynamic Presence at 75

BY ROBERT SHOGAN
Newsweek Feature Service

WASHINGTON — At an age when many veteran senators are content to echo their past rhetoric and reiterate old positions, 75-year-old North Carolina Sen. Sam Ervin is demonstrating a fresh voice and dynamic presence.

The folksy Southern Democrat oratory backed by a keen legal mind is still vintage Ervin. And sometimes his actions seem paradoxical given a record that leans toward the Establishment side of national life.

But in recent days—in cases ranging from basketball to big-business favoritism—he has emerged as a zealous defender of constitutional guarantees protecting individuals against corporate bullying and the legislative branch against executive encroachment.

In the celebrated International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.-Richard Kleindienst case, it was Ervin who successfully insisted that executive privilege could not keep White House aide Peter Flanigan from testifying before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Although never known as a friend to labor, he battled on behalf of America's tallest working men. In recent Congressional hearings, he condemned the proposed pro basketball merger on the grounds it would create a monopoly unfair to wage earners—in this case, professional athletes.

INTRIGUES COURT

And his eloquence so intrigued the Supreme Court last month when he sought to prevent alleged executive interference with legislative prerogatives that the justices kept him talking after his allotted time. The case involved the Pentagon Papers that Alaska Sen. Mike Gravel had read into the Congressional Record. The Justice Department was seeking to question a Gravel aide. Ervin said:

"Nothing comes nearer to scaring a poor senator or representative to death (than giving) the executive branch, with all its power and might, and the judicial branch, with all its power and might, the authority to pass officially on his conduct."

Last year, he opposed Army surveillance on private citizens and debated against a Presidential order expanding the authority of the Subversive Activities Control Board.

"This executive order manifests a fear of freedom," he said. "It manifests a fear of the American people."

Asked to explain behavior that sometimes seems paradoxical, the tall, ruddy senator declared, "I am in possession of a great affliction, a Scotch-Irish conscience which will not permit me to follow after a great multitude to do what I conceive to be evil."

For all his stature as a civil libertarian, Ervin has opposed virtually every piece of civil-rights legislation in the Senate. Critics say it is conventional Southern political wisdom. But Ervin says:

"They gave to the Federal government supervision of things that ought to be left to individuals. Racial relations, like other human relations, can only be settled in a satisfactory manner by the persuasive power of reason and not by the force of the power of law."

NOT IMPRESSED

But civil-rights advocates like Washington lawyer Joe Rauh are not impressed. "How can a man understand the civil liberties of white people and not understand the civil rights of black people?" asks Rauh, general counsel of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights. "Ervin is a man whose mind is in chains. If he could ever get out of the chains, he'd be the greatest man in the Senate."

Still, Ervin's interpretation of constitutional guarantees found him fighting alongside civil-rights groups against the tough Washington, D.C., anti-crime bill with its no-knock arrest provisions that blacks felt were aimed at them.

Today, after 18 years in the Senate, Ervin is a courtly politician who brings small-town attitudes and zealous love of the law to bear on complex present-day concerns. He was born in the mountain country around Morgantown, N.C., where his father practiced law for 65 years.

After heroic service in World War I (he was twice wounded and received the Silver Star and Distinguished Service Cross) he earned a law degree at Harvard, married his sweetheart, Margaret Bell, and eventually was named to the North Carolina Supreme Court after serving in the legislature. In 1954, he was appointed to a vacant Senate seat and was immediately thrust into controversy.

The Senate was examining the performance of Sen. Joseph McCarthy and Ervin finally voted for censure. He later explained his feeling that McCarthy's activities were hurting the Senate in a now-famous anecdote.

It seemed, said Ervin, that a mountaineer named Uncle Ephraim who was painfully crippled by arthritis went to a revival meeting. He kept his seat as others got up to relate their religious experiences—but let Ervin tell it.

"Finally," he says, "the moderator said, 'Brother Ephraim, suppose you tell us what God has done for you.'

"Uncle Ephraim arose, with his bent and distorted body, and said, 'Brother, He has mighty nigh ruint me.' "

Ervin has lightened many a Senate debate with stories about Uncle Ephraim and another stock mountaineer named Job Hicks. At the same time, he laces his oratory with quotes from Hobbes, Montesquieu and Jefferson.

LIVES QUIETLY

Off the Senate floor, he lives quietly with "Miss Margaret," sips an occasional bourbon and ginger and appears capable of winning re-election—he's up in 1974—for as long as he chooses to run. When the question of re-election came up a few years ago, one state official remarked:

"Hell, I'd just about forgotten that Sam had to run like everybody else. Sometimes you get the feeling that he holds that seat by divine right."

Despite criticism that he is often out of step with the times, Ervin's image as an incorruptible man who follows the dictates of his God-fearing conscience often undermines his critics. He has been staunchly against women's lib legislation, and a militant North Carolina lady recently said she wrote a tart letter of protest to him.

"But then I just ripped it up," she confessed. "In the first place, it wouldn't have done any good because he thinks he's right. And in the second place, do you know how funny it makes you feel to realize that you've called Sam Ervin a mal chauvinist pig on paper?"

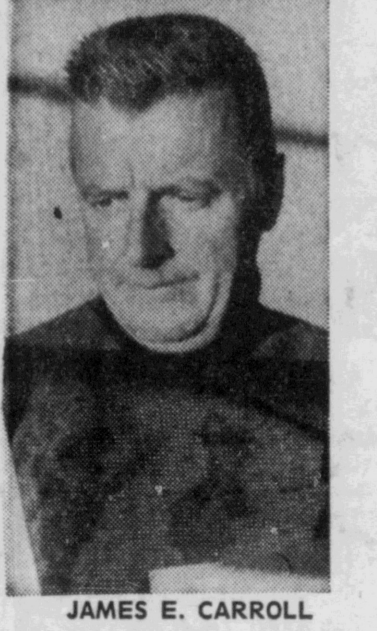
FBI Duties End For New Career

James E. Carroll, resident agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Norristown office, will retire June 30, after 21 years with the federal agency.

Carroll said he is leaving the FBI to accept an associate professorship at Montgomery County Community College where he will teach police supervision and criminal investigation.



JAMES E. CARROLL

Teaching will not be entirely new to Carroll since much of his time as a resident agent is devoted to training municipal policemen, lecturing to college and university law enforcement classes and speaking before civic groups.

Carroll said the FBI is one of the few occupations that affords a man an opportunity to enter a second career.

EARLY RETIREMENT

"One of the advantages of working for the FBI is after 20 years of service and reaching the age of 50, a special agent becomes eligible for retirement," he explained.

Carroll, who will be 50 this month, has 30 years in government service including his military service.

"I am taking advantage of this opportunity because I feel the experience I gained through the FBI perhaps can be passed on in the classroom to people interested in law enforcement," he said.

"I also feel that in a small way I may help lift law enforcement to a professional level," he added.

Carroll worked closely with the Montgomery County Chiefs of Police Association for several years and said he believes this is a natural continuation "where I can best contribute something and at the same time gain some personal satisfaction."

He will begin his job as an assistant professor in the police science department in September.

Carroll joined the FBI in April, 1951, after working with the Veterans Administration after college.

A B-17 pilot during World War II with 35 missions over Germany, he enrolled in an accounting course at Syracuse University following his discharge from the service and graduated in 1950.

In those days he explained there were only two ways to become a special agent with the FBI—be a practicing attorney or have a degree in accounting.

After graduating from the FBI Academy, he was assigned to the Springfield, Ill. office for three months then transferred to Peoria, Ill. as a resident agent.

Less than a year later he was transfered to Scranton and worked six years out of that office before being reassigned to the Philadelphia office.

IN PHILADELPHIA

Carroll was in Philadelphia five years before going to Norristown in 1963 as resident agent in charge where he supervised four other resident agents who worked out of that office under the jurisdiction of the regional Philadelphia office.

The agent, who devotes an average 60 hours a week to his job, not counting the time required to prepare for the courses he instructs for municipal police, said he will miss the FBI, but is looking forward to his new job.

He and his wife, Jane, live near Fort Washington Industrial Park. They have a daughter, 26, and a son, 22.

News Lacking From Couple In Chile

Two area natives now working as missionaries in central Chile are a source of worry to relatives this week.

Severe flooding from the worst Anarctic storm in years has devastated portions of Chile where the Rev. and Mrs. William Hause work with the Gospel Mission of South America.

Mrs. Sterlin Henley, Rhoads Road, Lower Pottsgrove, Mrs. Hause's mother, said Thursday she had no word from her daughter and son-in-law since the storm hit Chile.

"We haven't tried to get in touch with them," she said. "They've lived through earthquakes and everything else. We've learned to sit tight and trust in the Lord to keep them safe."

The two missionaries have been in Chile 14 years, returning to the area twice on furloughs. The Rev. Hause is a native of Eagle.

Their two children, Anna and Samuel, live with the Henleys in order to attend school here. Anna, a graduate of Pottsgrove High School, is a student at Pine Brook Junior College, East Stroudsburg. Samuel attends Pottsgrove High School.

The Rev. Hause is assistant field director of the Gospel Mission in Chile where he preaches and builds churches.

"He does a lot of traveling so they may not have been in the flooded area anyway," said Mrs. Henley. The two missionaries are expected to visit the U.S. again next year.

Borough to Rebuild Street Without Help of Township

The northern portion of Glasgow Street, which serves as the boundary line between Pottstown and West Pottsgrove Township, is scheduled to undergo reconstruction, borough officials disclosed, but the township won't be participating financially.

That was the content of a report given members of Pottstown Borough Council by Joseph D. Banta, borough manager, as he outlined the street reconstruction program for this summer.

Township officials concede the road is in desperate need of repair, Banta told council, "but they say there isn't enough money in this year's budget to pay a share of the costs."

The reconstruction will be paid through a variety of sources under the borough's long-standing policy of allocating costs to abuting property owners.

COST SPLIT

If a street is reconstructed within the borough boundaries, a third of the cost is applied to the property owner on one side of the roadway, a third to the property owner on the other side, and the remaining third is paid by the borough.

Nothing will change as far as Glasgow Street is concerned, said Banta, even though property owners on one side of it are in West Pottsgrove Township.

"The township has no objection to our placing a third of the cost on property owners living in West Pottsgrove," said Banta, "and we can do so legally."

SHARED EQUALLY

Even so, one third is still to be paid. This portion, Banta suggested to the West Pottsgrove Board of Township Commissioners, should be shared equally by the governments of Pottstown and West Pottsgrove.

This was rejected by the West Pottsgrove officials and if the borough wants the main access road to the municipal airport in passable condition, it will have to pay all of the remaining one third itself.

That's what council authorized.

The other streets listed on the reconstruction schedule will present no problem to the borough since they're all located inside the boundaries.

The list includes:

- Feist Avenue from Master to Mervine streets.
- South Street from Hanover to Charlotte streets.
- Rambler Avenue from Keim to Price streets.
- Green Street from High to Beech streets.
- Walnut Street 120 feet east of Green.
- Chestnut Street 100 feet east of Green.

Financing for all of these street projects will be on the one-third basis.

Under state law, any property owner failing to pay the assessment for the street within a reasonable time can have a lien placed against his deed by the borough.

This system, however, has been challenged by two local lawyers, Louis and Lawrence Sager, who maintain it is a violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1968 to place the lien without first giving the property owner a hearing before an impartial arbitrator.

The two lawyers previously announced plans to file suit in U.S. District Court to have the policy, which is set forth in state law, struck down.

Borough Solicitor Ronald H. Reynier gave the opinion that a verdict in the Sagers' favor would have a sweeping impact all over the state and predicted a final decision wouldn't be made until the U.S. Supreme Court reviewed the case.

Cure for Problems Sought In Title I Summer Program

The Pottstown School District's Title 1 summer program this year will treat the cause of disadvantaged students' problems, not just try to remedy the symptoms, according to the man who is coordinating it.

William D. Bartman, principal of Edgewood School and Title 1 project director, explained, "We find there's a tremendous correlation between a child's background and his reading ability.

"Previously we had only remedial reading and arithmetic classes even for every young children who qualified for the Title 1 program but that was just treating the symptoms of their problems."

So this summer's elementary program in language arts will enable students to see many of the things they try to read about but somehow can't comprehend, even with the help of pictures.

FREQUENT TRIPS

Field trips are the answer, Bartman feels, and the entire elementary language arts program will revolve around frequent trips to area factories, farms, museums, airports, municipal buildings, banks and historic sites.

More distant trips might include a harbor tour, a coal mine, Crystal Cave, or U.S. Mint in Philadelphia.

"Many of the destinations were chosen by parents on the council that planned the program,'' Bartman said. "They tried to think of things the underprivileged students might read about but not have a chance to see."

The language arts program will be centered in West End and Jefferson Schools but children qualifying can come from any school in the borough, including parochial schools.

Each teacher will have a maximum of 10 students, hopefully fewer, with 200 students expected to participate. Many of the trips will be coordinated by Bartman so that several groups could go at once and reduce transportation expenses.

The entire program is free for students and parents are invited to go on any of the trips at no charge.

After each excursion, the students will discuss their experiences, perhaps write their own stories about what they saw or all work together, dictating one group story to the teacher.

Or they can act out plays about what they saw or do art work to illustrate their stories.

The program will operate on a four-day week with flexible scheduling. Teachers will visit the parents of each child at least once a week, Bartman said, in a continuing evaluation process.

Service clubs in the senior high school like Future Teachers of America and the Key Club were invited to help by reading to students or tutoring and several teen-agers already volunteered.

The elementary arithmetic program will involve 90 youngsters and will be at Edgewood, Jefferson and West End Schools. Only three to five students will be in each group and teachers will tutor the children individually.

SPECIALISTS

Remedial reading classes for Intermediate School children will be conducted by the district's certified reading specialists.

"The tutoring in that program might even be on a one-to-one basis depending on how many children sign up," Bartman said. "The reading specialists will be able to diagnose a child's problems and prescribe a remedy."

Secondary students will have mathematics and language classes but unlike other years, home economics and industrial arts also will be offered.

"Everybody seems to be very excited about the program," Bartman said. "Parents have been notified if their children are available for one of the programs and so far response has been favorable."

The children's schedules will be sent home several weeks in advance so parents will know what days the students will be getting home late.

TO COMPETE

"One reason the parents wanted this type of program was to compete with so many other programs going on in the summer like Little League and day camps," Bartman said.

"We wanted to offer them something as exciting and maybe more exciting. Something they'd look forward to every day."

Serving on the parents' council that planned the program with Bartman were Principals Mrs. Elizabeth Barth, West End School; Clarence Renoll, Washington School; Anthony Zampella, Jefferson School, and Sister John Lawrence, St. Aloysius School.

Also, serving were Fred M. Serfass, former director of elementary education in Pottstown Schools; Mrs. Elaine Stanford of the Opportunity Council of Pottstown, and the Rev. Martin L. Acker, pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church.

Shapp Test Fails In Demo Election

The strength of Gov. Milton J. Shapp's hand-picked candidate to become Montgomery County Democratic chairman was tested in the Pottstown area and found to be lacking.

The test came during a reorganization meeting of the Democratic organization in the 146th Legislative District and it focused on election for chairman of that area.

Richard Lovenwirth, Pottstown lawyer and the incumbent, defeated Stephen P. Ruby, Red Hill, for the chairmanship. Ruby was supported in his bid for chairman by Marco Sonnenschein, the man to see for all Democratic patronage in Montgomery County.

Sonnenschein, who was named chief patronage dispenser by Gov. Shapp, is being supported by the governor in his effort to take over the reins of the county Democratic organization.

J. Phil Doud, county chairman for a number of consecutive terms, conducted the 146th District reorganization meeting in Gilbertsville.

The battle between Lovenwirth and Ruby was looked upon by county Democrats as an indicator of the outcome of the race for county chairman slated later.

Lovenwirth was supported in his bid by those owing allegiance to Doud, while those favoring Ruby are believed to be in the Sonnenschein camp.

50 VOTE

Fifty of the 53 eligible committee members showed up to cast ballots at the session. Of the 50, Lovenwirth received 28 votes for chairman and Ruby drew 22.

In elections for other offices all of the incumbents were reelected to two-year terms and it appeared Pottstown was well represented.

Re-elected were Earl Bicer, vice chairman; James J. Moore, corresponding secretary; Bessie James, recording secretary, and Sylvia Cichocki, treasurer.

Man Sentenced For Failing to File Tax Returns

A Harleysville man was sentenced to three months in prison Thursday following his conviction for failure to file income tax returns for three years.

Robert W. Hesselbach, owner of PBM Services in Harleysville, was given the sentence in U.S. District Court in addition to being fined $1,000.

U.S. Attorney Carl J. Melone said the information charged Hesselbach with failing to file income tax returns for 1966, 1967 and 1968.

During that time, said the federal official, the defendant had an adjusted gross income of $86,371, on which a total of $18,578 is due in federal income tax.

PBM is a packaging, binding and mailing firm which receives bulk drug products from major suppliers in the area. It then prepares physicians samples and mails them throughout the United States.

Prosecuting the case was Barry W. Kerchner, 1293 Lynn Drive, Lower Pottsgrove, assistant U. S. attorney.

Brothers Build Boat To Skim on Schuylkill

Two Kenilworth brothers are making a boyhood dream a reality these days in a garage on Riverside Drive.

Carl and Grant Pursel are building a motorboat capable of navitaging the shallow, temperamental Schuylkill River.

"We've lived along this river 40 years and always wanted to put a boat on it," said Grant, a supervisor at Baker Equipment Engineering Co., Limerick.

"Now I think we've finally found a way to do it."

Since Christmas the two brothers have been working on a flat-bottomed, snub-nosed craft 14 feet long and propelled by a huge fan mounted on the rear deck.

The "fan" looks more like an airplane propeller and it works the same way. It is powered by a Volkswagen engine souped up to nearly 100 horsepower.

The brothers expect the craft to float in only an inch of water and travel at least 40 miles per hour.

"If we don't hit a rock and tear out the bottom, she should run fine," Carl joked.

They started with standard plans for such a craft and modified them extensively to suit their own purposes.

The task wasn't easy, but the brothers were well equipped for it. Carl is a skilled woodworker and cabinetmaker and Grant, whose large workshop behind his house at 1188 Riverside Drive is headquarters for the project, is an experienced machinist.

A Volkswagen mechanic offered to modify the engine for them in return for an advertisement painted on the boat's steering vanes.

They designed the large cockpit to hold plenty of children but were told when they applied for a boating license that the craft could legally hold only four people.

"That's a shame, I think," said Grant. "There's always about 20 children down beside the river and we wanted to be able to take a lot at a time for rides."

Chinese Rule Out U.N. Role in Vietnam War

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — China declared Thursday the new U.S. actions in Vietnam should be condemned, but it ruled out any U.N. role in the situation.

Chinese Ambassador Huang Hua criticized the letter U.S. Ambassador George Bush sent to the Security Council Tuesday night, notifying it of the measures. The letter "attempted to impose on the United Nations such insolent measures as the flagrant blockade of the territorial sea and ports of Vietnam in violation of the U.N. charter and the principles guiding international relations," Hua said.

"That must be condemned," he added.

"It must be pointed out that the Vietnam question has nothing to do with the United Nations in the first place," Hua said in a letter to Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and Bush. "The United Nations has never meddled in the Vietnam question since the Geneva conference was held in 1954."

NEW BLOW

That was a new blow to Waldheim's efforts to involve the Security Council in obtaining a cease-fire and a settlement in Vietnam.

He consulted with all 15 council members Wednesday. A diplomatic source said the five big power permanent members did not favor a council meeting now.

Bush, president of the council for May, met with Waldheim on Thursday but said he had "no judgment" on whether there would be a meeting. The Chinese letter "certainly isn't very encouraging," he added.

The United States "would be very openminded on the question" of a meeting if Waldheim deemed it useful, Bush said.

Bush's letter notified the council of President Nixon's orders to mine the waters and bomb the railroads of North Vietnam to interdict war supplies.

THE AGGRESSOR

Referring to that letter, Hua said he was "instructed by the Chinese government to state" that "the United States is the aggressor on the Vietnam question."

He stated the measures Nixon announced were "a further expansion of the war of aggression against Vietnam and an open violation of the freedom of international navigation," constituting a grave provocation to the peoples of the world.

He declared that they were "absolutely impermissible by international law and the U.N. charter."

Supervisors Award Road Contracts

The Douglass (Berks) Township Board of Supervisors Wednesday night awarded contracts for road materials to successful bidders.

A contract for yellow gravel went to Martin Stone Quarries Inc., Bechtelsville, and for other stone orders, Pottstown Trap-Rock Quarries Inc.

A contract for asphalt materials went to E. J. Breneman Inc., Warwick Settlement, and for heavy equipment, Jesse Baro Inc., Douglassville.

A contract for purchase of a tractor with a back hoe and front end loader was awarded to Frank Ford, Temple, on a low bid of $7,390.

Other bidders were Beck Bros., Emmaus, $8,286; J. R. Christ, Boyertown, $8,500; Balthaser, Wernersville, $9,164, and Plasterer, Readnig, $9,490.

School Nurses Recognized at Lions Meeting

School nurses from Pottstown, Pottsgrove, Owen J. Roberts, Spring-Ford, Boyertown and Daniel Boone School Districts and from the Montgomery County Vocational Technical School were honored by members of the Pottstown Lions Club during the 21st annual Nurses Recognition Night.

Pottstown Mayor Brower B Yerger spoke on the merits of the proposed regional council of governments planned for this area at the meeting in Brookside Country Club.

Not only would such an agency provide for lower costs through joint purchases, he said, but it also would create an atmosphere for better understanding among local governments in the area.

Other guests included representatives of the Mental Health and Retardation Center, Family Service, the Visiting Nurse Association of Pottstown and Vicinity and the visual education consultant for the Montgomery County School Board.

President Robert Y. Kurtz, who was in charge of the meeting, reported on the recent state Lions convention in Pittsburgh.

Dr. Elmer Friedberg was program chairman. Among the 90 attending were guests from Boyertown, Stowe, Royersford, Coventry, Pottsgrove, Limerick and Linfield Lions Club.

Alumni Activities Slated at Hill

More than 600 alumni, wives and children are expected to gather on The Hill School campus this weekend for class reunions, social and athletic events and business meetings of the board of trustees and Alumni Association.

The trustees will meet in committee this afternoon to discuss the school's enrollment, finances, campus development and plans for the 125th anniversary in 1976. In the evening, trustees and reunion class will have dinner at Brookside Country Club.

The spring meeting of the trustees will convene 9 a.m. Saturday with a report by Headmaster Archibald R. Montgomery 3rd on the state of the school.

At 10:30 a.m. in Memorial Hall the Isaac Thomas Memorial Prize will be presented to the student "whose qualities of optimism, loyalty and service best represent the school's loving memory of Isaac Thomas, a former master."

The Edward T. Hall extemporaneous speaking contest will follow the presentation.

At 11 a.m. Joseph L. Bolster Jr. will preside over the annual meeting of the Alumni Association. Three needlepoint chapel chairs will be dedicated in honor of Henry J. Colbath, former chairman of the science department; Isaac Thomas, former chairman of the classics department, and James I. Wendell, former headmaster.

The Hill School band will give a concert at noon on Donner Hall terrace.

Afternoon sports in competition with Lawrenceville will include golf, tennis, lacrosse and baseball, followed at 4 p.m. by a panel discussion on school topics and tea in the Headmaster's Garden.

Evening class reunion dinners will end the weekend at Sunnybrook Ballroom. The president of the association will pay tribute to A. Pierce Saunders and Karl M. Pacanovsky, who are retiring after 46 and 44 years respectively.

Chevelle and Impala.
We've packed them for your vacation.

Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe and Impala Sport Sedan.

There are certain things no family should start out on vacation without.

Things that will help make your trip more enjoyable, less worrisome. We've packed many such things into our Chevelles and Impalas, the two most popular cars in their fields.

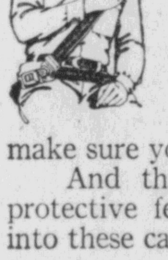
"Talking" seat belts.

Traveling around, getting in and out of the car a lot, it's easy to forget about buckling up.



Consequently, every new Impala and Chevelle has a front seat belt reminder system that speaks up if you try to start out before buckling.

What you get with an Impala or Chevelle is a body that's an all-welded steel superstructure, painstakingly put together. In other words, a Body by Fisher.

You get a sturdy steel guard beam in every door for added protection in case of side impact.

You get a steel cargo guard that walls off the passenger compartment from the trunk and helps keep everything in its place.

Up inside the fenders: inner fenders to protect against corrosion and kicked-up stones.

What you get, in both of these popular cars, is a lot of built-in strength and durability.

Good things to have along as you travel.

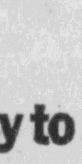
Impala is one of the roomiest cars around.

And Chevelle, though slightly smaller, gives you room for six. Plus plenty of baggage.

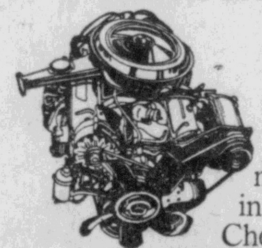
But comfort is more than just plenty of room.



So at all four wheels we've put big coil springs to gentle up your ride.

And between the body and the frame we've placed a network of little rubber cushions to help keep things quiet inside.

There's even more.



Here are a few more items you'll be taking along this summer if you travel in a new Impala or Chevelle:

A tough acrylic lacquer finish.

An engine that operates efficiently on no-lead, low-lead, or regular fuel.

Why, on Impala, you even get power steering, power disc brakes and Turbo Hydra-matic transmission—all standard.

A beautiful choice.

We suggest you stop by your Chevrolet dealer's soon, to take a close look at the 1972 Chevelle or Impala.

It's nice to know that whichever way you go, you'll be getting a whole lot of car.

GM MARK OF EXCELLENCE

Engine mounts low for stable ride.
Uni-frame slopes up providing extra clearance for mounting a new 42" or 50" Jacobsen mower.

Jerry Baker, America's Master Gardener, knows how important a versatile and dependable garden tractor can be.

So he suggests you compare any ordinary tractor with the unusual new Jacobsen GT. Jacobsen is the first garden tractor to use a new tubular, cross-braced Uni-frame design. The Uni-frame surrounds and protects vital drive components. And it allows these drive components to be placed in-line with each other for most efficient use of engine power.

You wouldn't buy a car without checking it out. So test drive a lawn and garden tractor before you buy. Your Jacobsen dealer can show you four new GT tractors including hydrostatic models up to 14 HP that require no shifting or clutching.

Moscow Appears to Be Trying To Avoid U.S. Confrontation

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet statement demanding that the mining of North Vietnamese harbors end "without delay" gave no hint of what Moscow might do if the United States refused to deactivate the mines, but it appeared that the Soviets were trying to avoid, at least for the time being, a direct confrontation with Washington.

The official statement issued Thursday said the U.S. action was "fraught with serious consequences for international peace and security." But the rebuke did not call for a cancellation or postponement of a summit conference between President Nixon and Soviet leaders, scheduled to begin in 10 days.

The statement was read over nationwide television and published in the government newspaper Izvestia.

INSISTS CANCELLATION

"The Soviet government resolutely insists that the United States' steps to block the coast and disrupt ground communications of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam be canceled without delay that acts of U.S. aggression against the DRV be ended, that the right of freedom of international navigation and trade be respected," the statement said.

It said the Soviet government will draw the "appropriate conclusions" from the mining of the harbors, and added: "The government of the United States will bear the entire responsibility for the possible consequences of its illegal actions."

The statement pledged that Russia "will continue to give the Vietnamese people the necessary support," but gave no details.

The Soviet Union has been the major supplier of the sophisticated military hardware being used in North Vietnam's current drive. Most of the supplies have been sent by sea.

The mining of the approaches to ports and the attempt to prevent foreign ships from entering North Vietnam's territorial and inland waters "create a direct threat to ships and lives of seamen of many states which carry cargoes for the DRV population," the statement said.

STERN LANGUAGE

Though the language was stern, the content of the Soviet statement was relatively moderate. The Soviet government ruled out, at least temporarily, any concrete act which would force cancellation of the summit conference.

Before Thursday's statement, the government-controlled press had been extremely cautious about reporting Vietnam developments.

80-Year-Old Man Takes Vows For Priesthood

MAGGIE, N.C. (AP) — Eighty-year-old Michael William Murphy, one of the oldest men ever to become a Roman Catholic priest, took his vows to God Thursday in a small church deep in the Smoky Mountains of western North Carolina.

The retired Detroit, Mich., real estate dealer took the centuries-old vows and then slowly prostrated himself on a blue carpet in front of the bishop.

For the grandson of Irish immigrants, the one and one-half hour mass of ordination was a childhood dream come true.

It also fulfilled the wish of his late mother, 95 when she died, who had prayed that one of her five sons might join the priesthood.

The ceremony took place in St. Margaret's Church, which Murphy built in honor of his mother.

Now almost completely bald, most of his life behind him, no brothers or sisters living, the short, stocky Murphy took an oath of obedience that will send him to a parish in Williamston, far across the state in North Carolina's flat land of tobacco and cotton farmers.

Mansfield Reports China Refusal To Help End Conflict in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Thursday talks with China's leaders convinced him China will not intervene to release U.S. war prisoners or end the war on a basis not satisfactory to North Vietnam.

Reporting to the Senate after a three-week tour of China taking him and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott to six cities, Mansfield said the current escalation of the war has "tarnished" the significance of President Nixon's historic trip to Peking.

Mansfield met for more than eight hours with Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and he reported:

"The Chinese made clear their belief that the resumption of the bombing of the North could prolong rather than end the war."

'BLEAK PICTURE

The discussions with China's leaders painted a "bleak picture" of the prospects for peace on the basis of policies now being pursued by the United States and the North Vietnamese, Mansfield said.

"Unless there are changes in the present course, therefore, visits to China will not alter the indefinite continuance of the blood letting of Americans, Vietnamese, Cambodians and Laotians, the destruction of the culture and environment of the Indochinese countries, the waste of tens of billions of dollars . . ." Mansfield said.

American prisoners, he said, will be released "only when U.S. air and naval operations cease."

Mansfield said that in the light of the mining of Haiphong harbor and other acts by the United States, the immediate prospects of further improvements in Sino-American relations are not bright.

China A213WX add: bright.

Scott said the talks with Chou En lai were "frank, candid and sometimes blunt discussions."

Mansfield said discussions with the Chinese leadership convinced him the border problem with the Soviet Union remains serious.

He said that if mainland China and the Soviet Union are once again drawn together, "it will only be because they are forced to because their differences are very wide at the moment."

Mansfield said the Chinese view the Vietnam war "as an attempt by the United States to dominate the political life of a region in which we have no business."

"The Chinese want a rapprochement with the United States, but they also want us out of Indochina," he said.

He said their support of North Vietnam is firm and added:

"They believe that the United States, one way or another, will ultimately be forced to withdraw and they seemed confident that, once we are gone, the people of the three countries will work out their own political arrangements."

Stereo Player, Records Stolen from YWCA

A stereo record player, speakers and records were stolen from the YWCA, 315 King St. between 10 p.m. Tuseday and 7:30 a.m. Wednesday by a burglar who entered through a door on the roof.

Police said the burglar or burglars entered by climbing to the roof on air conditioning fixtures and removing pins from hinges of a door there.

Patrolman Charles McClincy investigated.

Driver Is Charged With Leaving Scene

A Pottstown motorist broke a Philadelphia Electric Co. utility pole in half at Berks and King streets, then left the scene and drove home, Wednesday night, police said.

Pottstown Patrolman Linwood Youse stated he followed the trail of a leaking radiator to the home of Henry Diener, 639 Vine St., Stowe. Diener admitted hitting the pole and stated he did not know he was wrong to leave the scene. He stated he blacked out just before the accident.

Damage was estimated at $500.

Diener was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and failing to stop for a stop sign.

Woman's Club Officers Installed

Mrs. Walter M. Hallowell, Gilbertsville RD 1, was installed as president of the Senior Woman's Club of Boyertown at a meeting in the Community Center, 314 W. Philadelphia Ave., Boyertown.

Other officers installed by Mrs. Claude W. Kline, past president, were Mrs. Edward B. German, vice president; Esther V. Kreps, second vice president; Mrs. Richard Houck, recording secretary; Mrs. Paul Reinert, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. John T. Schondelmaier, treasurer.

$100 DONATION

The club approved an additional $100 donation to the Boyertown Veterans Memorial Fund, an award of $100 to a senior girl who wishes to continue her education; another $100 award to a senior girl who plans to enter a nursing school and who has no other scholarship, and $2 to the Pennsylvania Penny Art Fund.

Mrs. Hallowell presented the annual president's report, noting contributions the club made to local and county groups.

Mrs. Willard Grubb, chairman; Mrs. German and Mrs. Elwood Fox were named to audit the year's financial records.

The annual Senior Woman's Club June luncheon will be at the Globe Restaurant, East Greenville, June 13.

Mrs. Harry Yoder, home life chairman, was program chairman and Mrs. Rufus Muthard was chaplain. A tasters' luncheon was presented. Mrs. Russell W. Johns, hostess, was assisted by Mrs. Clifford Starr.

A Mother's Day call sounds just as good on Saturday—and beats the rush.

Plan to beat the traffic jam.

Low Direct Distance Dialing rates for station-to-station calls are in effect from 8 A.M. Saturday to 5 P.M. Sunday.

So call early—and be just as smart as your Mom always said you were.

Dial-direct rates apply anywhere in the continental U.S.A. except Alaska; do not apply to coin, credit-card, collect, person-to-person, and hotel/motel guest calls or calls charged to another number.

Bell of Pennsylvania

Fair Scheduled

The annual Boyertown Area Junior High School practical arts fair will be 6 to 8 tonight and 1 to 8 p.m. Saturday in the school.

On display will be projects made by the seventh and eighth grade students in industrial arts, fine arts and home economics.

Police Dogs Perform for Cub Pack 523

Circus was the theme of the program. All four dens participated as weightlifters, strongmen, lion tamers, magicians, tightrope walkers and acrobats. Mrs. Charmaine Schoch, Mrs. Mary Savage, Mrs. Marie Goodolf and Mrs. Lillian Abbott, denmothers, were in charge.

Anthony Foster, Douglass Drive, Douglassville, was inducted into the pack in a ceremony conducted by Miller. He received a bobcat pin. Cubs will march in the May 29 Memorial Day Parade in Boyertown. Members were asked to be at the Boyertown Area Senior High School 9:15 a.m.

ART CONTEST WINNER—a picture by Lisbeth Stauffer, second grade student at the Little Oley Elementary School, appeared as a winning entry in the Scholastic News Ranger, a magazine written to provide first and second graders with summer-time activities and diversions.

Miss Stauffer, eight year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stauffer, Woodside Drive, Boyertown RD 2, painted the picture with a watercolor wash on wet paper creating a "sunset," then used black construction paper to make a silhouette of the New York skyline.

She is a student of Mrs. Constance Gilbert, who entered several of her students projects in the Ranger art contest. Miss Stauffer enjoys reading, and horseback riding, as well as art.

Ursinus to present evening of talent

An evening of student talent will be presented by Ursinus College students, Thursday at Wismer Hall on the campus, in commemoration of the late F. Scott Pierce.

Pierce, a promising musician as a student at he college, was the son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Pierce, Hershey. His accidental death occured while on a picnic, when he lost his footing and fell from a cliff.

Performers will include Ruthie Kinter, Daphne Kline, Arlene Natalo and Carol Moyer dance; Sid Houck Andrea Turner Lisa Montgomery, Holly Leber and Tom Graham, piano and vocal.

And, Ken Park, Linda Clark, Joe Bosko and Friedenberg, folk guitar; and the John Barber rock group. Dennis McLaughlin and Jane Siegel will share the emcee duties. Co-chairmen are Nina Camiel, Richard Clark and Carol Wasserman, with Dr. Louis A. DeCatur, faculty advisor.

Refreshments will be served.

An annual "Spring Parents Day, Saturday, will include an 11 a.m. art exhibit at Wismer Hall gallery, coordinated by Douglas Dawson, and a 1 p.m. open house and dormitory tours for parents.

Also at 1, a women's club buffet luncheon will be hosted at Wismer Hall with Mrs. William U. Helfferich presiding. At 2:30, an outdoor dance, "Sounds of the Seventies," will be performed by 200 students in the Woman's Quad, coordinated by Barbara Dando and Connie Poley, '49.

A 4 p.m. tea will honor mothers in the parents lounge, and a band concert will be presented at 4:30 at Bomberger Hall.

Today and Saturday, a student faculty production of "You Can't Take it With You," will be presented at 8 p.m. in the Thompson Gay Gymnasium.

The Main theme of the comedy, directed by Dr. Donald L. Helfferich, chancellor, situations centered around the "generation gap." Gene Frechette is in charge of information.

First Federal to stage "ancient" instrumental Music not generally in concert, and until recently almost unknown, will be presented in a program of ancient instruments and compositions at 8 p.m., Sunday at the First Federal Savings and Loan Society, High and Hanover Streets.

Sponsored by First Federal, the program will be performed by the American Society of Ancient Instruments, directed by Maurice Ben Stad with Lawrence Hoenig, as solo tenor.

Founded in 1929, this is the society's 43rd year of presentation of this interesting music in an olden style.

In Europe, the six centuries before 1800 produced a music which still remains rich and vital for a contemporary audience. This musical heritage, virtually the same as in centuries past, and is still very much alive for music lovers.

Mrs. Stad, although primarily identified with the society, also has played with contemporary groups, and possesses a solid background of experience in the musical idiom.

After mastering his chosen instruments, the piano and violon-cello (and later their older equivalents, the harpsichord and basse de viole), Mr. Stad reinforced his training by wide experience in teaching, lecturing and conducting.

He has played with the society since its founding, and has directed it since 1946.

Ancient instruments include the viol and violin, both of approximately equal age and following parallel lines of development until reaching their perfected form in the middle of the 16th century.

During the Middle Ages and Renaissance, it was the viol which was "accepted," the violin being largely relegated to street players and comedians.

Violins supplanted the viols during the 18th century, and today the average concert goer is acquainted only with the former instrument.

Viols are far from dead, however, with modern composers such as Hindemith, De Falle and Poulenc making effective use of them in their compositions. At the close of the concert, the artists will be glad to display them to any of the guests who may be interested.

The program will consist of Robert Pearlman performing "Pardessus de Viole" and "Baroque Violin;" Deborah Reeder, "Viole de Gambe;" Evelyn Jacobs, "Viole d'Amour" and "Baroque Violin;" and Mr. Stad, "Basse de Viole;" with Julea Stad Chapline on the harpsichord.

The opening anthem by Thomas Tallis (1505-1508), will be followed by consert music of the time of Henry VIII (1491-1547); and "Pavane" by Claude Le Jeune (1528-1600).

Continuing selections will include "Two Canzoni," Girolamo Frescobaldi (1583-1643); a cantata "Laudate Dominum — Laudate Dominum, Quoniam confirmata, and Et Veritas Domini," by Dietrich Buxtehude (1637-1707); sonata "La Steinquerque," including "Gayement," "Air," "Gravement-legerment," and "Fanfare," lentement, gravement and gayement," Francois Couperin (1668-1733).

Italian dances from the British Museum (q. 1575), will include "Le forze d'Hercole," "Zorzi," "La Gamba," "Pauana del Re," "La Manfrolina" and "El Saltarello."

Following an intermission, selections including "Pavane" (1960), Francis Baines (1917); and Sonata III" by Buxtehude, consisting of "Adagio, allegro, lento and vivace," will be followed by "Various Songs" by sundry composers.

A suite performed by Mr. Stad will include "Aeloian Harp," "Poem," "Andante," and "Fugue." Honorary patrons of the society are Pablo Casals, Eugene Ormandy and Leopold Stokowski.

Oley artist is revolving exhibitor

The paintings of Olivia L. Barres, Oley, will be on revolving exhibit during the month of May at First Federal Savings and Loan Association, High and Hanover streets.

The artist studied oil under the late Ralph Dunkelberger; and watercolor as a student of Edgar A. Whiting, New England and New York, Robert Woods, Green Valley Lake, Calif., and at the San Miguel Institute, San Miguel, Mexico.

She also attended the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia; and studied flower painting with the late Barbara Vassiluff, N. Y.

Her work has been exhibited in one man shows at the Wyomissing Institute of Fine Arts and Berks Art Alliance; and in shows with the late Leon Kazsermczak at the Sheridan Gallery, Kutztown State College, and a three women show at the Reading Museum and Art Gallery.

Juried shows she has entered include the Reading Museum and Art Gallery Annual Show; Wyomissing Valley Art Show, Wilkes Barre; American Watercolor Show, Catherine Lorillard Wolfe Art Club, and the National Arts Club, all New York City.

Concert to be presented by elementary students

The annual spring concert by the Boyertown Elementary School band and orchestra will be 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the school auditorium under the direction of Charles Weiser and Allison Smith. The orchestra will be conducted by Mrs. Paulette LaBar.

Fifth and sixth grade students will be featured in the overture, "Mountain Majesty" by Yoder; "Sabre Dance" by Khachaturian, the "Phantom Regiment" by Anderson, and a clarinet ensemble with two selections. The band will close with highlights from "Oliver" by Bart.

Orchestra selections will include "Calyspo Strings" by Martin; "Square Dance" by Leidig, and "Prayer from Hansel and Gretel." They will conclude their portion of the program with "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," arranged by Matesky.

Art and craft fair set

The Collegeville Art and Craft Fair will feature local artists and craftsmen who will display their work and compete for prizes in both categories, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. May 20.

The event will be sponsored by Collegeville merchants. Refreshments, prizes and surprise entertainment for the children will be provided by the Skip-Perk Jaycees.

All entrants, with the exception of sculptors, should provide their own tables and decor, and space will be allotted on a first-come, first-serve basis. Tables will be provided for sculpture exhibits.

Artists will be responsible for arranging, dismantling, and attending their own work, which should be set up prior to opening time. Judging will begin at 10 a.m.

Paintings should be ready to hang, and are limited to 10 entries per artist. Any handcrafted item is acceptable for judging. Provisions will be provided for hanging.

Miss Keating, Devon, attended Northeastern University, Boston, and is currently taking weaving lessons with Louise Todd. She also attended the Penland School of Crafts, N. C., and studied metal sculpture under Frank Colson and Ronald Pearson.

Speaking of her jewelry, the artist said, "I like to use objects I find such as seeds, pods, shells, bone, feathers and stone. I like irregular substances; and I like brass because of its crudeness and informality, silver because of its purity and flexibility."

MISERY LOVES COMPANY—anguished disbelief, concern and advice are extended to John Massey, seated center stage as "one-half" of "The Odd Couple," a Hill School production set for 7:30 tonight at Memorial Hall. The public is welcome.

Also appearing in the three act comedy will be Marcia Neidley and Mrs. Susan Dudley, a faculty wife. Joseph Condon is faculty advisor for the independent study on theater production by Mr. Massey, senior student, actor and director.

PAAG plans summer arts festival

Plans for the First Norco Annual Summer Arts Festival were made at a Pottstown Area Artists Guild board meeting, hosted by Helen Durich, 3 Jay Lane, Pottstown Route 18.

Barbara Hojecki and Donna Williams will co-chair the event, 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., June 9, and 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., June 10, at Norco Mall, North Coventry.

Each artist must have work in place by 11 a.m., and be present both days to be eligible for prizes. Registration will be accepted the morning of June 9.

Unlimited space will be offered on a first-come, first-serve basis. Artists must provide their own hanging equipment, and watch and remove their own work. Judging will take place the first day of the show.

REGULAR MEETING

John W. Hathway, artist and lecturer, will present a program concerning his work in graphic art and watercolor, and speak of previous experience in stained glass art at a meeting, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Gruber Hall.

A 1928 graduate of the Philadelphia College of Art, Mr. Hathaway was sent to England and France in 1929 by the National Cathedral in Washington D.C., to do research on traditional stained glass for the studio of the late Lawrence B. Saint, located in Huntingdon Valley.

He also studied at the summer school of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Chester Springs; and the Barnes Foundation, Merion.

Following 10 years in stained glass at the studio of Mr. Saint, and work on windows at the National Cathedral, he designed windows for churches in Philadelphia, Maryland, Beaver College Chapel, Glenside; and Mt. St. Albans School for Boy, Washington D.C.

During World War II, he worked as a draftsman at the Rubicon Electrical Instrument Co., and later taught drafting at Harcum Junior College, Bryn Mawr.

In 1932 he started to teach art at Beaver College, Glenside, and was associate professor of Fine Arts at the Benton Spruance Art Center, and director of the Eugenia Fuller Atwood Library Art Gallery, Beaver.

His teaching career included the Philadelphia College of Art, Cheltenham Art Center, Allens Lane Art Center, and the Graphic Sketch Club, all in or near Philadelphia.

Mr. Hathaway also instructed a 10 week course in traditional stained glass to the apprentices at the Henry Willet Studios, Chestnut Hill, in 1967.

During the school years of '66-'67 and '69-'70, he taught History of Art on the Beaver College London campus, which he codirected at the London Polytechnic School; and print making at the Sir John Cass College of Art, London. Students attended from 50 U.S. colleges and universities.

A sabbatical leave in 1970 was spent studying developments in contemporary stained glass in Holland, Germany and France. Now retired, he currently does free lance art work in graphics and watercolor, demonstrates, lectures, gives gallery talks and programs on art.

Associations with which he is affiliated in Philadelphia include the Art Teachers Association, Artist's Equity (vice president in 1961); Print Club; Art Alliance (board of directors and member of the watercolor committee); and Water Color Club.

Also, the Philadelphia Sketch Club and Museum of Art, as well as the Woodmere Art Gallery (board of directors) and the American Association of University Professors (vice president, 1961).

He has exhibited extensively in and around the Philadelphia area, New York, New Jersey, and New Orleans, and served on numerous art juries.

Varied program scheduled at Daniel Boone

Daniel Boone Area School District will host the Schuylkill Valley Band, under the direction of Bruce Schonour, Wednesday, at the junior-senior high school, Birdsboro.

A varied musical program will include swing, modern, and jazz rock selections. The stage band will feature Lynn Maistros as its soloist in "Walk on By."

The Daniel Boone Band and Stage Band will reciprocate by entertaining the students at Schuylkill Valley, May 22.

Daniel Boone students will presen a musical performance at 3:15 p.m., May 23 at the St. Mark's Lutheran Church Birdsboro under the direction of Mrs. Deborah Weinhold and Edward Cashmore.

Soviet Official Says Summit Talks Still Set

Nixon Conducts 'Surprise Meeting' With Russian Trade Minister

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, smiling and injecting the word "friendship" into casual conversation, met Thursday with a Soviet trade minister who later said: "We never had any doubts" about the May 22 Moscow summit.

The comment by Foreign Trade Minister Nikolai Patolichev came after a surprise White House meeting, described officially as a "courtesy call" by the minister and Soviet ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin.

The session, which opened in a display of cordiality, came soon after the Soviet government denounced Nixon's mining of North Vietnamese ports.

The Moscow statement was more reserved than some U.S. officials had expected and made no reference to the talks between Nixon and Soviet leaders scheduled to begin in 11 days.

This could be an indication, the officials said, that Kremlin leaders were still pondering steps to counter Nixon's stern moves intended to choke off the flow of Hanoi's war supplies.

The White House and State Department had no official comment on the Soviet statement but said they were studying it.

The Pentagon said that before the minefields became active at 7 a.m. EDT Thursday five ships left Haiphong harbor. Four were Russian, the fifth a Hong Kong-based British vessel. This left 31 foreign merchant ships still in Haiphong, including 12 flying Soviet flags.

Asked whether Russian naval ships are en route to the Tonkin gulf area, Pentagon spokesman Jerry Friedheim said: "I have nothing to report this morning on either Chinese or Soviet fleet movements."

On Wednesday Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said only that there was no evidence of Soviet naval movements in response to the mines.

So far, Friedheim reported, there were "no mine-sweeping operations going on" in the entrances to the seven North Vietnamese ports.

The tone of the first high-level Soviet reaction to Nixon's Monday night announcement and the amiable and cordial public exchanges between the President and his Communist callers were viewed as indications that the long-planned Moscow summit talks were still on.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler refused to say whether the summit was discussed during the 50-minute meeting between Nixon, Patolichev and Dobrynin.

He would say only that it was a "courteous meeting."

Afterward, NBC radio news reported that the Soviet trade minister was asked by a newsman whether the summit was still on.

"We never had any doubts about it," the Russian was quoted as saying. "I don't know why this questions. Have you any doubts?"

The minister also told the reporter that during the meeting he and Nixon had discussed his visit to Washington for trade talks but did not talk about Vietnam or the planned summit.

Ziegler said Patolichev's White House visit had been under discussion for several days. The minister had arrived in Washington on Sunday for talks with Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Peterson and other officials, following up on the November visit to Moscow by then-Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans.

While declining to pinpoint when it was decided Nixon would meet with the Moscow visitor, Ziegler said the "President wanted to receive him as a form of courtesy" because Soviet leaders had met both with Stans and with Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, who visited Moscow this year.

The press secretary repeated his standard response—"plans are proceeding"—when asked about the Moscow summit. But newsmen who were ushered into Nixon's Oval Office to observe the opening moments of his meeting with the Soviets noted an atmosphere of cordiality.

As cameras whirred and clicked, Nixon engaged in animated conversation about languages, saying that Russian is easier than Polish or Oriental languages.

The chief executive gave the Russian and Polish words for friendship, saying to the smiles of his visitors that the Russian word is much easier to pronounce than the Polish.

Although officials would not comment, it seemed unlikely that the Soviet officials would use the meeting to deliver the Kremlin statement denouncing Nixon's orders to mine North Vietnamese ports.

The statement distributed by the government news agency said Nixon's actions are "fraught with serious consequences for international peace and security."

It pledged that the Soviet Union would continue giving the North Vietnamese "the necessary support," but did not spell out how the Kremlin would deal with the mines sown in Vietnamese harbors.

THE MAGIC KINGDOM

NEW YORK (ED) "Do you believe in magic?"

That's the question the Walt Disney organization has been asking for years. And every Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and Cinderella fan answers "Yes!" Even if your Mouseketeer ears are moth-eaten and your hula hoop and baseball cards are long gone, you can recapture a bit of magic at Walt Disney World in central Florida. The new recreation center has everything a vacationing family could want — camping, water sports, hotels, futuristic transportation — and the Magic Kingdom.

HIT IT, BIG AL! When Big Al sings for his honey, he puts soul into it. Though he's never done a hard day's work in his life, he does have a glorious growl . . . and that's all you need to be a star in the Pepsi-Cola/Frito-Lay "Country Bear Jamboree."

STEP INTO MY PARLOR . . . said the ghouls to the guest. Walt Disney World's Haunted Mansion is filled with creatures of the night — how many do you see at this ghostly birthday party?

Based on the famous Disneyland in California, the Magic Kingdom consists of six areas: Adventureland, Frontierland, Liberty Square, Fantasyland, Tomorrowland and Main Street U.S.A. Each is filled with special Disney entertainment. If ghostly comings and goings are your idea of magic, visit The Haunted Mansion in Liberty Square — if you dare! Its 999 ghoulish inhabitants have a special welcome prepared.

Would you believe twenty guitar-strumming, singing and dancing bears? The "Country Bear Jamboree" sponsored by Pepsi-Cola/Frito-Lay is where it happens — in Grizzly Hall, one of Frontierland's main attractions. The foot stomping Nashville sounds made by the talented grizzlies are in the finest and funniest country-western tradition. When Big Al wails "Blood on the Saddle," the whole darn hall rocks. (The voices and movements of the Bear Band come via a technique combining lifelike sounds and actions in three-dimensional figures — but when swinging Teddi Barra does her number, you'd swear they're alive!)

Whether your idea of a magic vacation is whirling away in a teacup at the Mad Tea Party or zooming around in an efficient monorail, you'll find your speed at Walt Disney World — but don't forget to bring the children.

Pottstown Man Sentenced to Prison Term

A Pottstown man was sentenced to serve from 15 months to three years in a state correctional institution by Judge David E. Groshens after pleading guilty to charges of larceny and receiving stolen good.

Parris Jennings, 125 N. Warren St., was apprehended Feb. 9, 1971 after he took four pair of trousers from Morris Miller Clothing Store, 311 High St.

Mrs. Miller, who was alone in the store when the defendant entered with two companions, said Jennings was wearing a black felt hat with a red band.

He asked to see pants, then grabbed four pair and fled onto High Street after knocking Mrs. Miller to the ground.

Pottstown police said Jennings was picked up a short time later from the description furnished by Mrs. Miller and the felt hat was found beneath a seat in his car.

Detroit's Mother Waddles Labeled The Guardian Angel of the Ghetto

By VERN E. SMITH
Newsweek Feature Service

DETROIT — At a time when poverty is hardening into an institution and charity comes draped in red tape, a large, motherly black woman, appropriately named Mother Charleszetta Waddles, is turning even the social-service professionals into believers.

Mother Waddles runs Perpetual Mission for Saving Souls of All Nations, Inc., in Detroit's East Side ghetto, and she does it without financial help from any Federal, state or city agency.

What's more, she does it on a grand scale. Mother Waddles's place is no rickety little storefront mission. It is a huge four-story former warehouse, dispensing more than 75,000 free meals per year as well as tons of free clothing and furniture and other services such as tutoring programs, legal aid, job placement and medical care.

"We like to shock them with kindness," says Mother Waddles, 59. "They feel like they've been treated like people, and when they leave they go with dignity."

The mission is a sort of last resort for many of the city's destitute. It is also the only round-the-clock emergency service in all of Wayne County. People come there when there is nowhere else to go and a surprising number of them arrive with letters from caseworkers at government agencies.

DESPERATE NEED

"Our client is in desperate need of food," said one such letter. "She has not received her last (welfare) check, and we are unable to help her for 10 more days, due to a time limit on food authorizations

Not long ago, Nancy Amidei, a professional staffer of the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, visited the mission and came away amazed:

"I've never seen anything like it. Unlike the Federal government, when Mother Waddles ascertains a need, she provides for it. She doesn't go through red tape. With about 100th of the hassle, she provides 100 times the value."

Mother Waddles brings a variety of administrative skills to her work — plus a talent for fund-raising that a university president might envy. Local churches contribute regularly, private businesses help and, occasionally, some individual comes through with a whopping gift. The $25,000 down payment on her present building came from a local businessman.

She is also a spellbinding donation raiser. One of her radio "marathons" recently brought in $27,000. She is also not above the production of such salable commodities as the "Mother Waddles Soul Food Cookbook" (price $2).

All that, of course, is not nearly enough. The mission is constantly, hugely, in debt and a few times during the past decade has been forced to close down for brief periods. But Mother Waddles always comes back and money never really worries her.

GOOD PORTION

She attributes a good portion of her success to her natural feeling of kinship for her clients. "I've been there, too," she says. "I know what it's like to wake up in the middle of the night with a social worker at the door wanting to look under the bed to see if you're hiding anyone.

"I've put tubs in front of my house and sold barbecues. I've made pies and sold them at the bowling alley. I've run numbers. People wonder why I'm not ashamed to admit some of these things but how can you be ashamed of your own past? And how can you help others when you can't admit you were once lost and hungry, too?"

Mother Waddles quit school at 12, married at 14 and was widowed with a child at 19. In 1945, her second husband, a cook, walked out leaving her with nine shildren.

Shortly afterward, she was evicted from her apartment and she rented a truck, loaded her furniture on it and drove around for three days looking for a place to stay. Evenings, she and her five girls stayed in a cheap motel room; the four boys slept in an all-night movie.

OUT OF MISERY

Somehow she pulled herself and her family out of this misery. In 1956, she was ordained a minister in the Pentecostal Church. A year later, she organized a "Prayer Band" and "let it be known that we wanted to help people." Then she married Payton Waddles, a Ford Motor Co. machinist, and opened her first mission in a storefront.

Last year, she moved to her new building, which is still mostly unfurnished because of a lack of funds. She lives in a frame house a few blocks from the mission. The living is modest. "When it gets cold," she laughs, "we just open the oven door to keep warm. We don't mind."

On the first floor of the mission is a newly installed medical clinic, run by Dr. Leonard Fortner, 30, who gave up a suburban practice to move into the clinic. On the third floor is a sparsely furnished chapel where Mother Waddles conducts services every Sunday.

Her message is simple. "I read the Bible," she says. "It doesn't say just go to church and do what the folks say. It says do something."

Middleman Costs May Increase Food Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising middleman costs, not farm prices, are expected to drive up supermarket food prices during the rest of 1972, the Agriculture Department said this week.

But despite sharply higher retail food costs during the first quarter, the average for all groceries this year will rise only about 4 per cent, department economists said.

Retail food prices rose 5 per cent in the first three months, compared with 2.4 per cent for all of 1971. Increases from the first-quarter have slowed a bit recently because of lower prices for meat animals, officials said.

Warnings were raised, however, that store prices may rise seasonally again this summer as farmers market fewer hogs and some other commodities.

The prediction on rising middleman costs for transporting, processing and selling food products after they leave the farm was included in a report on where the consumer dollar goes for a list of "market basket" items.

MAY HAVE PEAKED

"Returns to farmers for these foods may have peaked in the first quarter of 1972 and are expected to weaken seasonally toward the end of the year," the report said.

Regardless, the report said, rising charges for getting food to consumers after it leaves the farms will force up retail prices the rest of the year.

The market basket includes only food which originates on U.S. farms. It does not cover seafood and imported products.

Economists said the retail cost of a food market basket—theoretically enough to feed a typical family for an entire year—averaged $1,288 during January, February and March.

That was 2.8 per cent more than consumers paid in the last three months of 1971. Compared with January-March last year, the market basket was 5.8 per cent more expensive.

Prices paid to farmers for livestock, particularly cattle, rose during the winter, reached a peak in February and then declined in March.

FIRST QUARTER

For the first quarter, the farm value or producer's share of the market basket price was $510 and the middleman's $778, the report said. That was a $26 increase in the farmer's share and a $10 boost for the middleman since last October-December, the report said.

In March alone, the one-month market basket declined $5 from February to a $1,292 annual rate.

All of the one-month drop came out of farmers' pockets, according to department calculations. The March farmers received $502 of the indicator, a $13 decrease from February.

But only $5 of the reduction was passed along to consumers. Middlemen in March increased their share $8 to $790, according to the report.

Ninth Grade Party Planned At Junior High

The annual ninth grade party at Spring-Ford Junior High School will be 8 to 11 p.m. Friday in the gymnasium.

Forty students will decorate the gymnasium in a Hawaiian setting. Green and yellow streamers and a large palm tree will set the scene.

As students enter the gymnasium, they will see blue ocean water and pass through bamboo huts to enter the tropical area.

The food will be served in the cafeteria during intermission. Monkeys perched in palm trees will be table centerpieces.

Chaperones will include Emily Holden, Mr. and Mrs. John Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hallman and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hamm. Music will be provided by Patchwork.

Boys must wear coats with either dress shirts and ties or turtlenecks. Girls must wear dresses or pants suits and students must enter from the driveway.

Ninth grade students who can arrange transportation home will be dismissed 1:55 p.m. Friday to prepare for the party.

Cleanup will begin 8:30 a.b. Saturday.

RICH HISTORICAL AREA — The Pottstown area, steeped in history, offers residents and tourists any number of places to go for study, pleasure and recreation. Top row, left to right, are New Hanover Lutheran Church, the oldest German Lutheran Church in America; Most Blessed Sacrament Church, Bally, where the Rt. Rev. John Carroll, first Catholic Bishop of the United States, was confirmed in 1793, and Spring Mountain Ski Area, home of winter outdoor enthusiasts and rock fans in the summer. Second row, St. Peter's Village, restored recently to include a number of quaint shops, carriage rides and an old railroad coach that carried presidents; home of John Potts, famed ironmaster and founder of Pottstown whose home was restored and maintained by the Pottstown Historical Society, and Upper Perkiomen Valley Park, just outside Green Lane, which offers camp sites, picnicking, boating, swimming and fishing to Montgomery County residents. Bottom row, historic Augustus Lutheran Church, Trappe; Waltz Golf Farm which has a miniature golf course and a chip and putt par-3 course, and the reservoir of Philadelphia Suburban Water Co. which offers a scenic view along Route 663 north of Pottstown.

American Heritage Discovered in Pottstown's Backyard

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pottstown area is rich in history and landmarks. This is the first of two articles on tourist attractions in the borough and others only a few miles away.

By CHARLES PITCHFORD
Mercury Staff Writer

Pottstown is the hub of one of the richest historical sections of the country.

Daniel Boone Homestead to the west, Washington's headquarters in Valley Forge and Augustus Lutheran Church — the oldest unchanged Lutheran Church in America — to the east, area residents don't have far to travel to discover American heritage.

Anyone planning a leisure Sunday drive need only to head in any direction from Pottstown to find one of several recreational or historical areas.

The Pottstown area, according to the Greater Pottstown Area Chamber of Commerce, is within 50 miles of more than 6 million people in southeastern Pennsylvania.

Pottsgrove Manor, the Georgian mansion built in the 1750s by John Potts, wealthy ironmaster and founder of Pottstown, on West King street, draws many visitors each year.

Frank Griesemer, caretaker at the mansion, said he noticed a recent increase in the number of tourists visiting the home, a sure sign of spring.

The historical landmark is open year round but the spring weather draws larger crowds. Griesemer said the tourist season reaches its peak during the summer months when children are out of school.

The museum contains a number of vintage American cars including the oldest running auto in the United States — a 1891 Peugeout.

EARLY CYCLES

In addition to more than 60 cars, all built in the early 1900s, the museum features early model motorcycles, bicycles and hobby horses — the forerunner of the bicycle — as well as typewriters, telephones and radios.

Boyertown, a few miles to the north of Pottstown offers area residents a chance to learn about early modes of transportation at the Boyertown Museum of Historic Vehicles, Warwick Street, next to Friendship Hook & Ladder Fire Co.

The museum specializes in early model vehicles built in Berks County including a horse-drawn sleigh built in 1763 and a hand pumper fire truck from the 1790s.

St. Peters Village lies five miles southwest of Pottsown by way of the scenic and winding northern Chester County roads.

The quaint quarrying village was expanded into an arts and crafts center along the banks of the swift flowing French Creek.

The village is one of the most popular tourists attractions in the Pottstown area and appeals to all age groups with its wide variety of shops.

Open year-round, the village includes French Creek Inn, a general store, candlemaking shop, blacksmith shop, ice cream parlor and numerous arts and craft shops in addition to the many restored homes.

HOPEWELL VILLAGE

A restored iron-making community, 12 miles west of Pottstown, Hopewell Village, is representative of the more than 500 coal blast furnaces which once existed in the eastern United States.

The federal park, which lies in both Chester and Berks counties, is open year-round and according to Lawrence Points, supervisory park ranger was visited by more than 175,000 tourists last year.

Points noted that the majority of the tourist trade occurs during the late spring and summer months.

Just 18 miles from Pottstown, and surrounding Hopewell Village, is French Creek State Park portions of which also are in Berks and Chester counties. Most of the 6,500 acres is heavily wooded.

The facilities include camping, fishing, hiking, picnicking, boating and swimming from Memoral Day to Labor Day. The state park is open year-round for camping, hiking and picknicking.

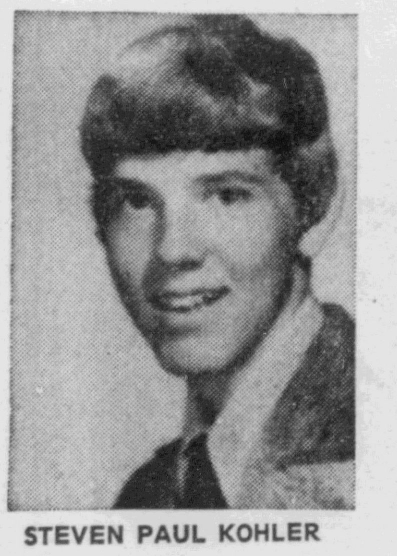
SUMMER PEAK

"We won't hit our peak crowds until June and early August, but will get occasional large weekend crowds, especially on Sundays before then," he added.

Daniel Boone Homestead is less than 10 miles from Hopewell Village and French Creek State Park in Berks County.

Mrs. Elizabeth Loder, a tour guide for the Daniel Boone Homestead, said that while the exhibits are open year-round, it's really a seasonal operation.

"Each winter we get a few persons passing through the area," she said. "But it's not until spring when we really get busy."



STEVEN PAUL KOHLER

MARGARET ANN SMITH

Top Students Named At Owen J. Roberts

Steven Paul Kohler, 340 S. Hanover St., North Coventry, and Margaret Ann Smith, Chester Springs, were named valedictorian and salutatorian of the Owen J. Roberts High School Class of 1972, according to Principal Ralph B. Shankweiler.

Kohler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kohler, is a member of the honor society, chemistry club, yearbook staff and Pottstown Fencing Club.

He also is a member of the cross country and tennis teams and will enter the Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., after graduation.

Traveling With Child Creates Fresh Outlook

Once upon a time, the most frequent piece of advice about traveling with children was: Don't.

Generations of parents agreed with humorist Robert Benchley when he warned that traveling with the kids was "like going third class in Bulgaria." But all that seems to be changing today and now the youngsters even have a travel guide of their own.

It's written by a globe-trotting, divorced mother of four, Leila Hadley, who believes in going places and doing things with toddlers and teen-agers in tow. Her book is "Fielding's Guide to Traveling with Children in Europe" and on page 3 it answers the question: Why?

"You will see Europe with the fresh outlook of a child," she says, "upon whom you can count to observe all the curious little things you often miss or just take for granted. More unusual, unexpected and downright pleasant things happen with your children than when you travel alone."

OWN KNOWLEDGE

For traveling in the United States, however, area residents will have to rely on their own practical knowledge. A spokesman for the Pottstown Automobile Club said the club doesn't give out information or advice about traveling with children except for pointing out places of interest for children.

"If you can't control your kids," the spokesman said, "there's nothing we can do to help you."

The spokesman, who refused to give her name, added that for many years the automobile club had a book about games children could play on a long trip, but a lack of requests for it caused them to stop carrying it.

Miss Hadley starts off with general advice, then covers specific places from A to Z (Aalborg, Denmark has a "pleasant zoo" and it's best to visit Zwolle, The Netherlands, on Friday which is market day when colorfully costumed farmers from Urk come to town.)

It's probably the only travel book in history that tells where children can get lost in a hedge for fun (Hampton Court in England) or sleep overnight in a circus wagon (Furuvik, Sweden). Parents should appreciate the pre-embarkation tips which discuss everything from how to find bathrooms in a strange land (quickly) to the relative inexpensiveness of sleeping in castles.

BRIGHT COAT

The author says she always takes along a bright coat, preferably red, so that the children can't lose her in crowded stores or museums.

"Also take the largest bag you can hook over your arm or sling over your shoulder," she advises.

The bag is her dumping ground for everything from toys to immunization certificates. And toys, according to Miss Hadley, should not include things with lots of small parts like jigsaw puzzles and Chinese checkers unless you want to leave a trail of dropped pieces across Europe.

One of the handiest items she discovered is a combination light and microscope. It's great for reading road maps at night — and for taking splinters out of children at any time.

Since one factor inevtiable to travel is motion and since children are prone to motion sickness, Miss Hadley has a few thoughts on the subject.

"Let's not mince words," she writes. "If I see a child, mine or anyone else's, throw up, it is almost a foregone conclusion that I will, too. Whether you share this reaction or not, you have to admit that a child throwing up is an unpleasant circumstance under any conditions and particularly unpleasant for all concerned in a public transport such as a plane."

DRINK LITTLE

Miss Hadley, the stewardess's friend, recommends that six hours before flight time the children drink a little tea or milk, 8 to 16 ounces of a liquid diet meal and perhaps a bit of toast. That will make getting there half the fun.

For mamas traveling with infants, she cautions that baby formulas like Similac and Enfamil aren't always available on the European market. Disposable diapers are sold nearly everywhere but please remember in Sweden to call them by their brand name, Cellstoff, instead of bloja which is a plain old-fashioned diaper.

European baby-sitting facilities are marvelous, Miss Hadley says, and there is no problem parking the youngsters while you take off on your own. Switzerland, in fact, almost overdoes it.

It offers Kinderaufsicht (nurseries), Kinderhutedienste (babysitting services), Kinderheime (children's homes away from home), Kinderbetreuung (child-care), Kinderparadiese (supervised playgrounds), Kinderspielplatze (unsupervised playgrounds), And yes, there's even a plain old kindergarten.

Footloose parents and kids thumbing the book can easily find a castle in Spain (try Oropresa for a castle with crenelated towers, baronial reception hall and modern plumbing) or a farmhouse in Ireland (Mrs. J. Alvey has a comfortable one in Carmey with pony carts nearby).

Miss Hadley also deals with museums, a subject that has alienated many touring parents from their kiddies. Miss Hadley thinks that with a little advance preparation — looking at a book of a museum's paintings before going — a child's taste for art can be whetted.

But, she notes, "the main thing is to leave the museum before your child gets bored or before your feet hurt."

Winnie the Pooh To Visit in Area

A movie of the life and times of Pooh Bear will be shown at Pottstown Elementary Schools, St. Aloysius and St. Peter's Schools, Amity and Lincoln Schools, Daniel Boone School District, and at the pediatrics ward of Medical Center East.

A spokesman for Sears said the company sends the costume of Pooh around the country annually as a public service. He will be portrayed by a Sears employe.

Drumheller-Delp rites solemnized

White carnations, mums and gladioli decorated the church. Mrs. Louis Varady was organist for the 3 p.m. service.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cancelierre, Boyertown RD 2. The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Agnes Delp, King Street, Douglassville.

The bride, given in marriage by Rodney Schaeffer, Reading Avenue, Boyertown, wore an empire gown of sata peau with appliques of alencon lace styled with a high collar, lantern sleeves and dirndl skirt with pearled appliques.

A Juliet cap with matching pearled lace held her chapel length veil, and she carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and carnations.

BLACK ONYX

Gerry Grim, Bechtelsville RD 1, was maid of honor. She wore a blue chiffon gown with white venise lace trim on the high collar, waistline, and cuffs of the bishop sleeves, self fabric buttons on the bodice, and a dirndle skirt.

Mrs. Morris Minner, Boyertown RD 1, Debbie Wynn, Shaner Street, Boyertown and Linda Delp, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids.

They were attired as the honor attendant, but in pink, green and apricot.

Deborah Ehst, Boyertown, was flowergirl. She was attired as the honor attendant.

Donald Feather, New Berlinville, was ringbearer.

Randy Hetrick, Oley, was best man. Peter Krassowski, 317 Montgomery Ave., Boyertown; Morris Minner, Boyertown RD 1, and Michael Canceliere, Boyertown RD 2, ushered.

Mother of the bride, Mrs. Drumheller chose a pink lace dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Delp, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue lace dress with matching accessories. Both wore an orchid corsage.

RECEPTION

The couple is residing in Boyertown.

A graduate from Daniel Boone High School, the bridegroom is employed by Luden's Candy Factory, Reading. A shower honoring the bride was given by her attendants in the church social hall.

Dessert hosted at DAR meeting

A meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mahanatawny Chapter, included a smorgasbord dessert and flower arranging demonstration by Mrs. Kenneth R. Heydt, Vaughn Road, North Coventry.

Mrs. Heydt teaches flower arranging at the YWCA in Pottstown and Norristown, and the Owen J. Roberts adult evening school.

Mrs. James Bechtel and Mrs. Malcolm M. Carver were cochairmen of the event, assisted by committee members, Mrs. William S. Troutman, Mrs. Earl S. Yohn, Edith Bertolet, Mrs. L. Stanley Swinehart, Mrs. Otto A. Maske, Mrs. Joseph G. Brewer and Mrs. C. C. Bickel.

MR. AND MRS. BARRY DELP

Churchwomen hear Boyertown resident

Mrs. Paul Shollenberger, Boyertown, presented a program entitled "Something for Nothing," at a meeting of Christ Episcopal Churchwomen at the parish hall, 316 High St.

Mrs. Shollenberger stressed that a homemade gift item can have more value to the receiver than one purchased in a store, regardless of its monetary worth.

A varied display of articles the speaker made from "odds and ends," around the house included candle holders, miniature pictures, crocheted beading, plaques and macrame.

SCRAPS OF MATERIAL

She noted that it is possible to copy a gift item seen in a store, but time is required to work on the project. It is useful to store scraps of material, buttons, old picture frames, flower pots and other articles for future use, Mrs. Shollenberger said.

A business session was conducted by Mrs. Robert Magee, president, who reported that Mrs. John Hillegas is chairman of a fund raising project.

Six members will represent the church at a united thank offering, Wednesday at Valley Forge Military Academy, Wayne.

The Rev. Wilfred Penny, pastor, announced a confirmation on Thursday.

A nominating committee, composed of Mrs. Stanley Seitzinger, chairman, Mrs. Bruce Roberts and Mrs. Kenneth Schaeffer, read a slate of officers including Mrs. Wayne Grim, president; Mrs. Gail Pennypacker, vice president; Mrs. Joseph Dietz, secretary; and Mrs. Daniel Weller, treasurer.

Chairmen named were Mrs. Richard Strange, united thank offering; and Mrs. Rudolph Reehn Jr., parish guild. Officers will be installed June 5 at a dinner meeting hosted at the Seven Stars Inn.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Pennypacker and Mrs. George J. Brower, hostesses.

John C. Webber presents talk to North Auxiliary

The executive director of Health and Welfare Council of Montgomery County spoke at a meeting of the Medical Center North Auxiliary, in the nurse's lounge at the center.

John C. Webber presented the topic "The Shape of Things in the 70s — Will the Average Person Find his Perspective?"

"To know ourselves in this fast moving world is critical for survival. New and exciting things are before us if we let ourselves control them and not let them control us, such as the computer, space exploration, education and population explosion, television, changes in the traditional values system and new technology," he told the group.

"The stability and support of the family are more important than ever for the emotional good of its members."

Mrs. John J. Maron, president, conducted the business session.

Catherine Endy announced a garage sale at her home, Beech Street, and Mrs. Sidney Pollock reported on the donor luncheon, Wednesday, at Brookside Country Club.

Volunteer hours at the hospital, reported by Mrs. J. Ross Schmidt, involved 21 members and totaled 188.

Serve raisin buns at coffee break

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

These Raisin Buns have a lot to recommend them. The dough is lusciously soft and the filling is delicious. The buns are a great offering when guests are coming for afternoon coffee.

If you try this recipe, be a kitchen engineer. The buns taste best warm from the oven—this way the filling is as creamy as can be. Keep guests waiting for the buns, rather than the other way around. The dough needs to rest for 4 hours in the refrigerator, so it's quite possible to manage this.

RAISIN BUNS

1 package active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons butter, soft
Milk
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 eggs, well beaten
2¾ cups sifted flour
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
1½ cups seedless raisins
Melted butter

Into a large mixing bowl turn the sugar, salt and butter. Scald ½ cup milk and pour over sugar mixture; stir until butter melts; cool to lukewarm. Mix in yeast, lemon rind, eggs and flour. Dough will be very soft.

Arrange buns, 3 inches apart, on a greased cookie sheet. Brush with melted butter. Let rise until doubled—about 30 minutes.

Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until lightly browned—10 to 12 minutes. Serve warm. Delicious with butter or sour cream.

Easy and less expensive to travel with kids

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ever think about taking the kids to Europe with you? The very idea probably strikes fear in your heart. But it shouldn't, says travel expert Leila Hadley, who insists that it's easier and can be less expensive to travel in Europe with children than to leave them behind.

And she should know. She not only embarked on a two-year trip around the world alone with her oldest son when he was 4, but has traveled with her four children in 37 countries since then.

EXTENSIVE FACILITIES

"Americans think it's such a strain to look after children on trips, and it is in this country," concedes Miss Hadley. "But abroad the child-care facilities are so extensive that you can have it both ways—share experiences with the kids or have the option of being on your own, knowing they are well cared for.

"By taking them along you save yourself a lot of worry and don't feel that you're being a neglectful parent. Also the child is more secure when there's not an ocean between you," she adds. "Besides, it's expensive putting them in summer camp or leaving them at home with a housekeeper."

Miss Hadley thinks Americans are not aware of the extensive services, entertainment and attractions available for youngsters in Europe. To meet this need she has written a book, "Fielding's Guide to Traveling with Children in Europe."

"The whole point is to have a positive attitude. Kids know when their parents are happy and relaxed and that makes them happy and relaxed," says Miss Hadley, who took her first trip at the age of six months to Scotland, and continued to visit her mother's family there every year.

AROUND-THE-WORLD

It was after her divorce that she went with her son, now 27, around the world by freighter and three-masted schooner. "I wanted to be somewhere where everything was fresh and new," she recalls. After she remarried, her husband's job as a geologist took the family all over the world and she has lived in Africa, in the Caribbean, in Central America and the Far East, as well as Europe.

"Sharing with children brings a totally new dimension to the travel experience," she points out. "It's more fun, people are nicer when you have them along and you see things through different viewpoints—that of the parents, who know the historical background, and that of the kids, who see things with a fresh and curious eye."

There are many more choices about where to stay in Europe than in America, Miss Hadley notes, from a farmhouse at $3 a night, or a little country inn at $8, on up to the more luxurious hotels. She says reasonably-priced eating places are generally available also, and it is easy to picnic abroad.

PARENT FREEDOM

Among the child-care facilities that give parents short-time or long-time freedom for their own pursuits she suggests these: hotels with playrooms, resident nannies and diaper-drying facilities; day kindergartens; ski schools; camps; a few department stores with playrooms and child care; children's tours of major cites; supervised children's playgrounds, "and there are inexpensive and very reliable, very competent baby sitters everywhere—100 baby-sitting agencies in the Netherlands alone," she says.

Miss Hadley thinks preparation is an important part of the trip and that it is vital to everyone's enjoyment to "bone up" on the countries to be visited. "Have the kids send for information from tourist bureaus, collect pictures; then you know what to look for and when you finally see it say 'here it is at last.'

AGE DIFFERENCE

"Each age has a different pleasure," she goes on. "You don't realize what the child gets out of it until years later. A lot is recorded in their minds that you don't hear about at the time but the feedback goes on for a lifetime. And children acquire an ear for the language."

Parents needn't worry about getting medical aid. Hotels can recommend English-speaking doctors and for real emergencies help can be obtained from the American embassy or consulate, she explains.

Next scheduled trip for Miss Hadley, divorced for the second time, is to Portugal, Italy, Spain and Greece this summer. She'll take her 12-year-old daughter along anl meet her 16-year-old son and 18-year-old daughter in Europe. "I'd get lonely if I traveled alone," she says.

Former resident honored at two bridal showers

Two bridal showers were given in honor of a former Boyertown resident, Patricia Elaine Hertzog, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Rupell, North Miami Beach, Fla.

Miss Hertzog's future mother-in-law, Mrs. Daicie Hollingsworth, and aunt of the prospective bridegroom, Mrs. Ila Mills, hosted a kitchen shower with 22 present.

Miss Hertzog and Steven Harry Hollingsworth, also the son of the late Henry Noel Hollingsworth, will be married June 10 in Holy Cross Lutheran Church, North Miami.

STATE WINNER — Cynthia Albright, Schwenksville, won the title of Miss Pennsylvania Queen of Posture and Physical Fitness in competition in Lancaster.

Sponsored by the Pennsylvania Chiropractic Society, the pageant marked the close of Correct Posture Week. Purpose of the observance is to emphasize the importance and relationship of correct posture and physical fitness to health, especially among school children.

Contract Bridge

Week's bidding quiz

You are the dealer, both sises vulnerable, and bid One Diamond. Partner responds One Heart. What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠A8 ♥QJ63 ♦AK94 ♣KQ7
2. ♠10 ♥K742 ♦AQ86 ♣AQ43
3. ♠AQ96 ♥Q87 ♦AKQ52 ♣10
4 ♠KQ83 ♥A5 ♦KQJ954 ♣6
5. ♠AQ9 ♥96 ♦AK98 ♣AQJ2

1. Four hearts. You can't settle for less than game, for it is hard to imagine losing four tricks after partner responds with a heart. The jump to game is not a closing bid; on the contrary, it shows about 20 points, since the heart response guaranteed only 6.

To raise to only three hearts would be dangerous — because partner, with minimum values, might pass. The jump to four is much more accurate for both game and slam purposes.

2. Three hearts. Though the high-card point count is only 15, the good trump support and the singleton spade raise the value of the hand to about 18 points and make it clear that a raise to two hearts would be inadequate.

Partner may pass, but, if he does, you should feel that game is unlikely and, in fact, that making even three is in doubt. It must be borne in mind that partner will have a desperately poor hand if he passes.

3. Two spades. The outlook for game is excellent and no risk should be run of playing the hand at less than game. The jump-shift is forcing. There are prospects for a game or slam in spades, hearts, diamonds, or even notrump. Partner's next response will help to clarify the issue.

4. One spade. This hand is far from a minimum and there might therefore be a temptation to indicate the excess values by jumping to three diamonds. But, since this might result in missing a 4-4 spade fit, it is better, all things considered, to show the spades now, with the intention of taking strong action later.

5. Three notrump. It is reasonable to assume that partner has at least 6 points and that a game, at least, must be reached. The leap to three notrump shows a minimum of 20 points and hence inferentially suggests the possibility of a slam. To jump to two notrump would not quite do the hand justice, for partner might pass.

Three notrump identifies not only the high-card point count but also the balanced distribution. It draws a very precise picture that permits partner to choose the best final contract.

Churchwomen plan banquet

A report on missionary work in Japan was read by Mrs. George Ziegler at a meeting of St. James Lutheran Churchwomen, Limerick, where plans were made for a banquet, 6:30 p.m. June 7, at Lakeside Inn.

Mrs. Ziegler also read a thank you letter from the Ken Crest Home, Mont Clare, for place mats and green stamp books. Mrs. Allen Trythall presided with Mrs. Clarence Ziegler providing piano accompaniment.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Kenneth Kirk, who also served refreshments with Mrs. Paul Breisch and Mrs. Forrest Andes. The topic was led by Mrs. Breisch.

ENGAGED — The engagement of Sheila K. Hagenbuch to David C. Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Nicohls, 392 Schuylkill Road, Birdsboro, was announced by her parents, Mrs. Nicholas Bucci, 419 Main St., Birdsboro, and Marvin J. Hagenbuch, Albany, Ga.

Miss Hagenbuch, a graduate of Daniel Boone High School and Reading Business Institute, is a medical secretary for Drs. Ted Verbinski, John Hillig and John Brower, Wyomissing.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Ralph Finkbiner, 410 New St., Spring City, and the late Mr. Finkbiner.

The bridegroom is a son of William Vanderslice, 166 Old Reading Pike Douglassville, and the late Mrs. Bertha Vanderslice.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Vanderslice, 166 Old Reading Pike, Douglassville, witnessed the couple in marriage. Mrs. Vanderslice was attired in a long powder blue dress with a matching petal hat, and carried a bouquet of carnations.

TASTEFUL SILVER

Many of today's women graduates definitely plan a career and a home. Silver is the gift that lends a helping hand creating an elegant, tasteful atmosphere on budgeted time. Flatware and holloware that are entertainment aids as well as day-to-day helpers should be uppermost on your gifting list for the girl graduate.

Ignite brandy dessert calories disappear

By BARBARA GIBBONS

Brandy itself is pretty potent, calorie-wise — about 80 calories an ounce, so it's probably off-limits as a beverage. But a few teaspoons of brandy dizzled on fruit adds barely 20 calories, and a lot more flavor punch than the calories would indicate! Now, if you ignite it, you'll light up the sky with a minor miracle: most of the brandy calories will disappear! They evaporate, along with the alcohol.

At only seven calories a teaspoon, bottled brandy flavoring lets you add the essence of brandy wihout the alcohol calories — no pyrotechnics needed!

BRANDIED PEACH SHERBRET

2 cups canned low-calorie peaches
1 envelope plain gelatin
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 teaspoons brandy flavoring
sugar substitute to equal 2 tablespoons sugar

Drain peaches and measure out 1½ cups juice (add water if needed.) Combine juice, lemon and gelatin in saucepan. Cook and stir over moderate flame until gelatin is completely dissolved. Put peaches through a sieve. Combine all ingredients and mix well. Pour in a shallow bowl and freeze one hour. Remove and beat on high speed until fluffy. Freeze for one more hour. Makes eight servings, 25 calories each.

BRANDIED PEACH CHIFFON PIE

1 envelope plain gelatin
4 tablespoons cold water
1½ cups skimmed milk
5 teaspoons sugar
pinch of salt
3 eggs, separated
2 teaspoons brandy flavoring
sweetener to equal 2 tablespoons sugar
1 can (8 ounces) low-calorie peaches

Soften gelatin in cold water. Combine milk, sugar, salt and beaten egg yolks in a saucepan (or the top of a double-boiler.) Cook and stir over a very low flame until mixture thickens slightly. Stir in gelatin, brandy and sweetener; stir well. Chill until mixture begins to set slightly. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into gelatin mixture. Drain peaches and chop coarsely. Layer with chiffon mixture in prepared pie crust. Chill until firm. Serves eight, 107 calories each.

Low-calorie crumb crust: grease a pie pan with 3 tablespoons diet margarine. Sprinkle with ½ cup graham cracker crumbs. Press firmly to surface. Quick-bake in a 450-degree oven for eight minutes. Cool before filling.

Barbara Titantic wins awards at twirling contest

Barbara Titanic, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Titanic, Spring City RD 1, placed in several categories of events at a twirling contest sponsored by the National Baton Twirlers Association.

In her initial entry in winning categories at Clayton, N.J., the eighth grader won a fourth place medal in advanced fancy strutt and received trophies for second place in novice military march and for fifth place in the parade majorette category.

Woman's path

Diamonds are the twinkling stars to light each juncture on a young woman's path to maturity. Memory making occasions like graduation deserve to be honored by the light from a thousand rays flickering in small diamond ear drops, in a diamond pendant. Pearls are for girls any time; pearls and diamonds for a lucky girl from her parents at graduation time. A bracelet, ring, a single strand of pearls in the length most becoming to her, earrings to match: they're all gifting perfection.

Junior high and elementary school students present music program at association meeting

The Northern Junior High School Band, under the direction of Gary Ulrich, and Rupert Elementary School Glee Club, directed by Mrs. Naomi Astheimer, presented musical selections at a meeting of the Pottstown Schools Music Association at the high school.

Incumbent officers, nominated and elected to serve in the same capacities next year include Dr. Grant Rohrbach, president; Mrs. Clyde Umstead, vice president; Mrs. Richard Hatfield, treasurer, and Mrs. Warren Sheets, secretary.

William F. Lamb Jr., district music department chairman, listed musical events beginning with a Pottstown elementary band concert, 7:30 p.m. May 22 at the high school, and a high school band and band front concert, 7:30 p.m. May 25, also at the high school.

ELEMENTARY CONCERT

A concert of elementary orchestra music, directed by Paul Eves, is scheduled 7:30 p.m. May 24 at Edgewood Elementary School for all parents and interested members of the community. Refreshments will be served.

The high school band and band front also will perform at the final association meeting, 7:30 p.m. June 7 at the high school.

Mr. Lamb thanked members for their assistance in housing members at the regional orchestra festival in March. He also commented that funds used by Terry Hoppel for the band front was well worth the expenditure.

Vincent Beno noted a membership of 227. Nominations were read by Warren Egolf, committee chairman. Dr. Rohrbach presided.

SPS to host spring dance

Single parents, who may be divorced, widowed or separated and reside in Pottstown and surrounding areas, are welcome as guests of the Single Parents Society at the annual spring dance, "The May Frolic."

The event will be from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday evening at The Moose Home, High Street. Music for dancing will be provided by "The Moonlighters," and a buffet luncheon will be served.

Italy's prime sparkler is new asti spumante

By WILLIAM CLIFFORD

In 1928 a young doctor of laws named Arturo Bersano dropped his textbooks into a vat of wine in his father's cellar in north Italy.

"I watched my books being submerged," he recalls, "and I was sure that wine is more useful in human relations than the practice of law."

Bersano's books may not have made a vintage wine, but his act produced a great vintner. Today his name is second to none for Barolo and other wine of Piedmont, Italy's greatest wine region.

Asti spumante is the spumy or sparkling white wine from Asti, Bersano's home district. Many firms make it, at different degrees of sweetness, and quality, and price. Much of it is exported to France, where people know a good wine when they taste one.

UTTERLY DIFFERENT

Genuine asti such as Bersano's is made from the huge-scented honey-sweet muscat grape. Its fermentation is stopped early so that the alcohol is very low, only 7 or 8 per cent, and much of the natural grape sugar remains in the wine.

NATURE'S BEAUTY—being pruned and shaped for entry in the Pottstown Garden Club Annual Spring Flower Show, flowers and foliage are changing shape under the "green thumbs" of club members.

The display will be on exhibit from 1 to 9 p.m. today at Grace Lutheran Church, 660 N. Charlotte St.

Preview of annual show presented at meeting

An arrangement of appleblossoms, tulips and bleeding hearts in an antique basket centered the table at a Pottstown Garden Club meeting, attended by 40 members who were presented a preview of the Spring Flower Show, scheduled for today at Grace Lutheran Church, 660 N. Charlotte St.

At 10 a.m. workshop and business meeting preceded the display of spring arrangements at the church. The show began with a novice arrangement with one flower by Mrs. Hunter Kurtz, and an arrangement with water by Mrs. William Schultz.

A "Line Arrangement" by Mrs. Fred Kindt was followed by a "Nature, Art and Industry" arrangement by Mrs. Arthur Nuzzo. A "Door Arrangement" was exhibited by Mrs. John Gilbert, and "Table Segments" by Mrs. Kurtz, Mrs. J. E. Schmidt, Mrs. Gross Painter and Mrs. Earl Brumbach.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. Willard Haring, president, Mrs. Frederick Hildenbrand read the minutes, and Marion Robinson gave the treassurer's report. The workshiop was conducted by Mrs. Haring, Mrs. Schultz and Mrs. Albert Istenes. Two guests attended.

Hostesses, who prepared refreshments, were Mrs. William Achatz, Mrs. Robert Bickel and Mrs. Charles Friess, with Mrs. Friess and Mrs. Achatz pouring.

SHOW REPORT

The Little Flower Show report included winners in horticulture: flowering house plants as Mrs. Istenes, Mrs. H. N. Wagonhurst, Mrs. Hildenbrand, and foliage, Mrs. Hildenbrand and Mrs. Istenes.

And, "Iris, one stalk, dwarf: Mrs. Hildenbrand; tulips, double early: Mrs. Hildenbrand; single, species tulip: Mrs. J. H. Yocom and Mrs. John LeVeille, and other single types: Mrs. J. E. Schmidt, Mrs. Yocom, Mrs. Hildenbrand and Mrs. Schultz.

And, "Bride's Luncheon:" Mrs. Schmidt, Mrs. Kurtz and Mrs. Painter, "May Day," a Japanese arrangement: Mrs. Painter, Mrs. Kindt and Mrs. Kurtz.

Drama festival to be hosted in Pennsylvania

The Eastern Pennsylvania Theatre Council, in cooperation with the Eastern States Theatre Association, announced the first drama festival to be hosted in Pennsylvania, June 3 at Immaculata College near Paoli.

Regional winners from state drama festivals will participate in the initial event. States included are Delaware, New Jersey, New York, Washington D. C., and Pennsylvania, represented by "Drama Keys" of Norristown doing cuttings from Edgar Lee Masters "Spoon River Anthology."

Proceeds from the Dutch Country Players production of "Dangerous Corner" by J. B. Priestley will be donated to the drama festival. The curtain will rise at 8:30 p.m., Friday, at the playhouse, located on Route 563, one mile east of Route 63, Green Lane.

Eileen Bunt-David Schlegel wed in St. Aloysius Catholic Church

St. Aloysius Roman Catholic Church was the setting for the marriage of Eileen M. Bunt and David William Schlegel. The Rev. James Farrant and the Rev. Stephan Boughter, pastor of St. Lukes Lutheran Church, Gilbertsville, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Lynn Zierdt, the bride's cousin, sang "Let There be Peace on Earth;" theme from "Love Story;" "I Don't Know how to Love Him;" "Sunrise Sunset;" "The Wedding Song," and "We've Only Just Begun." Kerry Ziegler played the guitar.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Burr, Gilbertsville RD 1. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Schlegel, 80 Jackson Road, Gilbertsville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a crepe gown enhanced with daisy appliques on the bodice, mandarin neckline and skirt hemline. A daisy headpiece held her chapel veil with matching appliques, and she carried a nosegay of gardenias and rosebuds with stephanotis.

FLORAL PRINT

Daniel Manchester was best man. Glenn Teboe, Harmony, N.J., and Larry Pennypacker, Graterford, the bridegroom's uncle, ushered

The bride, a graduate of St. Pius X High School, attended West Chester College and Ursinus College. She is employed in a management training program with the W. T. Grant Co., Phoenixville.

ARMY VETERAN

A graduate of Boyertown High School, the bridegroom served with the Army and is employed in the accounting department of Stanley G. Flagg Co., Stowe.

Two showers honoring the bride were given by her aunt Mrs. W. E. Zierdt and grandmother, Mrs. Ida Mae Bunt, at the Zierdt home, Harleysville, and by her co workers.

Mrs. Jackson made her sister's gown and those of the attendants, and the bride's aunt, Mrs. Zierdt made the attendants' shawls.

Award-winning author writes children's books

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Children's book author Meindert DeJong, who once thought he never would write for children, concedes he now will never write for adults.

"Every time I contemplate an adult novel, a children's book gets in the way," he said.

At the same time, he admits he lacks all the qualifications of being a juvenile writer.

"I never knew many children, never had any children and never read any children's books," he says.

Meindert, who came to the United States from The Netherlands when he was seven, spoke at Aquinas College recently. He received a bachelor's degree in English many years ago from Calvin College in Grand Rapids.

He has won many awards for his juvenile book writing, including the Hans Christian Andersen Medal Award, several Newbery medals and recently the Regina Medal of the Catholic Library Association for general excellence in writing. He now lives in Chapel Hill, N.C.

ENCOURAGED TO WRITE

He says he got into writing quite by accident, when he told a story in a library about a gray goose and a chicken and was encouraged to write it by the librarian.

Since then DeJong has worked as a gravedigger, mason, tinner, furnace installer, brick layer and janitor.

"Cerebral work interferes with writing," he claims.

"When you win an award, you are singled out among many and you stand 'naked on the dike' (a Dutch expression which means pitilessly exposed) and you ask yourself ungrammatically, 'Why me?'

"So you try to analyze your writing. In my case, I am an intuitive writer. I think like a child with all the feelings, the curiosity and wonderment of a child, and so I write in language that children understand."

Stock Market Trading Volume Dwindles

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market plodded doggedly ahead Thursday while the volume of trading dwindled, as it had Wednesday.

With some help from the glamour department, advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange topped the losers 911 to 499.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed at 934.83, a gain of 3.76 for the day. It had closed at 937.84 Monday, 925.12 in Tuesday's sharp drop, and 931.07 Wednesday.

Big Board turnover amounted to 12.9 million shares. The Wednesday figure was 13.87 million. In contrast, Tuesday's was 19.91 million.

NOT APPARENT

If Vietnam war news played any part in the market's performance, it was not apparent. When the Soviet Union demanded that U.S. forces end their steps "to block the coast of North Vietnam," there was no tangible reaction. Yet market observers cautioned that investors remained apprehensive.

One domestic development caused part of Thursday's advances, as Rogers C.B. Morton, Interior Department secretary, announced the approval of the proposed Trans-Alaska pipeline.

Alaska Interstate became the Big Board's most-active issue, up 1⅝ to 44½ on 315,700 shares, and Atlantic Richfield gained 1½ to 64¼ on 155,800 shares, ranking fourth most active.

The same thing happened on the American Stock Exchange. Banister Continental rose 2⅛ to 25¾ on 298,900 shares to become the Amex volume leader, and Alaska Airlines placed fourth, up 1⅛ to 8⅞ on 53,900 shares.

AP AVERAGE

On the American Stock Exchange the price-change index was ahead .12 to 27.32.

In Over-the-Counter trading, day. The largest was 83,900 shares of International Telephone & Telegraph at 53. The stock closed at 53¼, unchanged.

Most of the steels and electronics issues were up, but other categories were mixed.

On the Big Board there were 72 new lows but only 20 new highs, as 1,732 issues were traded.

On the American Stock Exchange, turnover totaled 3.98 million shares, compared with 3.66 million Wednesday. There were 564 advances and 344 losers among the 1,176 issues that were bought and sold.

Wine Prices in State Will Drop 6 Per Cent

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Wine prices in state Stores will drop 6 per cent beginning June 1, Gov. Shapp said Thursday.

Shapp also told a news conference he wants wines taken out of the state monopoly system, and sold in private stores.

The price cutback stem from a previously announced reduction in the state's wine markup from 58 to 48 per cent. However, since several hundred wine items were increased more than 6 per cent the past few months, many Pennsylvanians will be paying more for their wines than they paid last year.

Currently, all liquor and wine in the state is sold in State Stores.

TAKEN OUT

"I want to see wine taken out of the monopoly operation and offered in specialty shops around the state," Shapp said. "The State Stores cannot offer the variety of wines the public demands. The State Stores could continue to handle the few brands they now handle."

The governor also discussed milk, saying his legislation to eliminate minimum pricing by the Milk Marketing Board would be introduced next week. In the meantime, the Milk Board will hold hearings in Philadelphia and Scranton on the price of milk.

Shapp said he hoped the House would consider next week a $54.1 million appropriation for the State Welfare Department. The House defeated the measure earlier this week, while state officials announced relief checks may stop for lack of funds.

Shapp said he has not taken control of police at Penn State's University Park campus, where students have been demonstrating against the Vietnam war. Last november, Shapp issued an executive order giving himself, Lt. Gov. Ernest P. Kline or Atty. Gen. J. Shane Creamer authority to take command of police in civil disturbances.

Noting Kline was on the scene, Shapp said, "The lieutenant governor has not taken command because there has been no disorder that would come under the executive order."

County Coordinator Named for Celebration

James M. Nellany, Whitpain Township was named county coordinator for the 1976 Bicentennial celebration by the Montgomery County Commissioners in Norristown.

Nellany, who is courthouse correspondent for The Mercury, previously was a news director of Norristown radio station 23 years. He has been covering courthouse news 25 years.

He also is a four-time recipient of the Freedoms Foundation Award of Valley Forge for editorials on "The American Way of Life."

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans closed 2 cents a bushel higher on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday, but trade was light and price movements cautions.

Trade was mixed, but the pace slow. Public involvement was very thin.

It appeared that most of the speculative element was wary of taking a firm position at any time during the session because of the uncertainties governing the new Vietnam activity and the upcoming visit of President Nixon to Russia. Any possible moves from Washington affecting the two situations also could have an affect on futures.

At the close, soybeans were 1⅛ to 2 cents a bushel higher, May 3.48½; wheat was 1½ cents lower to ½ higher, May 1.61¾; corn was unchanged to ¼ lower, May 1.23⅛; and oats were ⅛ to 1¾ cents higher, May 71¾ cents.

Deadline Nears For 7-Day Trip To Disney World

The deadline for registration for The Mercury's seven-day trip to Disney World, Cocoa Beach and Cape Kennedy is Monday.

"Although the tour includes many sights, there is maximum flexibility in the schedule for people to sightsee on their own," explained Frances Shock, The Mercury's advertising manager.

"What many people dislike about a tour is the regimentation. Every minute of the day is planned for them, on some tours. While our tour has many activities planned," he said. "plenty of time is alloted for people who want to go places on their own."

Sightseers will depart from Pottstown by bus for Philadelphia Airport 6 a.m. Saturday, June 24, and fly National Airlines for Florida at 8:45 a.m.

After arriving in the Orlando, Fla., airport, the travelers will transfer to the Ramada Inn South. Members of the tour can go to Disney World for the remainder of the day or go to Cyprus Gardens or other attractions on their own.

Sunday, June 25, and Monday, June 26 will be spent at Disney World.

On Tuesday, June 27, the vacationers will transfer from the Ramada Inn in Orlando to the Cocoa Beach Ramada Inn, where they will spend two days of leisure on the beach or visit some of the many other tourist attractions in the Cocoa Beach area.

An excursion to Cape Kennedy Space Center will begin Thursday morning, June 29. The tour will end Friday morning, June 30. The vacationers will leave from Orlando Airport for an 8 a.m. flight to Philadelphia. Upon arrival in Philadelphia, the tourists will return to Pottstown by bus.

"We've planned the tour at the end of June so that all school children will be able to go. Special prices are offered for school age children.

Phoenixville Man Sentenced for Forgery, Drugs

A Phoenixville man, arrested by Pottstown police on forgery and drugs charges, was sentenced in Montgomery County Court to from three to 23 months in County Prison by Judge Vincent A. Cirillo.

He was arrested Feb. 5 after presenting a personal check for $48 drawing on a Reading bank at Longacre's Jewelry Store, 17 N. Hanover St. The previous day, according to Detective R. J. Liott, the defendant passed one for $45 drawn on the same bank at the same store.

Metz was taken into custody three weeks later on a drug charge. Police said he was apprehended in a bus parked outside the Hotel Shuler, 138 High St., with narcotics in his possession.

The court also ordered him to pay a $200 fine and court costs.

Guns, Rifles Taken From Pottstown Home

The theft was discovered shortly before 2:30 a.m. when Jack Ledford, 424 Walnut St., returned to his second floor apartment. He told police he left the building 12 hours earlier.

Pottstown Patrolman Dennis Oswald said there were no signs of forcible entry. The front door was locked but police said a knife or similar object could have been used to unlock the door.

Several neighbors in the building were questioned by police but reported seeing no one near Ledford's apartment or hearing any noises Wednesday. The loss was estimated in excess of $500.

False Alarm

Norco Fire Co. volunteers responded to a false alarm at the Norco Elementary school shortly after 1:30 p.m. Thursday. A caller told the Good Will Fire Co. dispatcher, there was a kitchen fire at the school.

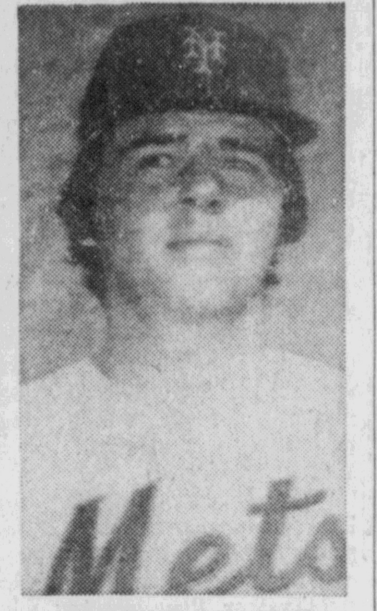
Mets Obtain Mays For Cash, Pitcher

WILLIE MAYS



CHARLIE WILLIAMS

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays, a living legend with the giants for two decades, returned to New York Thursday as a member of the Mets and immediately disclaimed any role as a prima donna of special status.

"The Mets have a good team—they're not going to keep me out there just because I'm Willie Mays," the 41-year-old superstar said after being dealt to the Mets by San Francisco for a promising minor league pitcher and an undisclosed sum of cash.

"I'm not going to be something on display. I have to play ball. If used in the right way, I think I can do a good job for the Mets," he added.

The announcement of the trade, on again and off again during the last week, was made in the dining room of the fashionable Mayfair House, at the corner of 65th and Park Avenue, following a poorly kept secret meeting among M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board of the Mets; Horace Stoneham, owner of the Giants; Bob Scheffing, Mets' general manager, and Yogi Berra, the Mets' manager.

FLEW TO MEETING

Mays flew down from Montreal Wednesday night. Scheffing and Berra were given a hurry-up summons shortly before noon after Grant, Stoneham and Mays had talked for approximately 1½ hours.

Scheffing was permitted to make the announcement before the grinding newsreel cameras and the flashing bulbs of the still photographers.

"We are pleased to announce that the Mets have acquired a player . . ." a very nervous Scheffing intoned.

Then he proceeded to reveal that to acquire the services of the colorful home-run hitting outfielder the Mets gave up Charlie Williams, a 24-year-old Met rookie right-handed pitcher last year now with the Tidewater International League farm team, and a hunk of cash. Estimates of the money involved ranged from $100,000 to $200,000.

"The Giants wanted another player but we could not spare him," Scheffing added.

After the formal midtown announcement, Mays and his new employers, Grant and Scheffing, were whisked out to Shea Stadium for additional exposure before the newest Met was to take a plane for San Francisco to clean up his personal affairs.

"I'll be back Saturday," Mays said. "I should be in uniform Sunday but I don't know whether they'll play me or not. That's up to Yogi."

Mays will don his familiar uniform No. 24, which he first wore as a New York Giant in 1951 when he made his big league debut. The Giants moved to the West Coast in 1958.

Stoneham, who owns 68 per cent of the Giants and who brought the Alabama-born Mays from Minneapolis in 1951, appeared on the verge of tears as he told of the parting.

"It wasn't that the Giants needed the money," he insisted. "More than anything else we were concerned about Willie's future. He has given us so much down through the years. We wanted to be sure that he had a secure future.

"Don Grant and Mrs. Payson (Joan Payson, owner of the Mets) are in a better position to see to that than we are. They have to answer to only six or seven stockholders. We have to answer to 60,000.

Grant said that in the conferences with Stoneham and Mays he had assured both that Mays would never have a worry about the future.

"I hope he stays with us the rest of his life," Grant said. "I can assure you he will be in good financial shape when he retires."

The Mets' chairman said that he expected Mays to be taken care of just as Yogi was taken care of—from player, to coach, to an even higher office in the organization.

"Does that mean he may some day become manager just as Yogi did?" someone asked.

Grant stalled momentarily and then said; "I don't say he can become manager or cannot. As far as I'm concerned, Yogi can be our manager the rest of his life."

Mays was the idol of Polo Grounds fans when he was a member of the New York Giants. His cap-falling basket catches in the outfield became a trademark as did his speed on the bases and his power at the plate.

In his career, he has hit 646 home runs, just 68 back of Babe Ruth's all-time 714. Playing spasmodically this season, he has appeared in 19 games, with five of his 49 at bats as a pinch-hitter, and has a batting average of .184. He has not hit a homer.

Bruins Capture Stanley Cup, 3-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Sensational Bobby Orr scored one goal and assisted on another as the Boston Bruins rode the shutout goal tending of Gerry Cheevers to a 3-0 victory over New York Thursday night, clinching their second Stanley Cup in the last three seasons.

Orr, who led all scorers in the playoffs National Hockey League with 24 points, connected on a power-play goal midway through the first period and the Bruins protected the lead until Wayne Cashman tapped Orr's slapshot into the net for the first of his two third-period goals.

The opening 10 minutes of the game were played much like a heavyweight championship fight with the two teams feeling each other out cautiously.

When Walt Tkaczuk drew a penalty at 10:25, the Bruins sent out their power-play unit. New York's Bruce McGregor narrowly missed clearing the puck over the Ranger blue line as Orr stopped him.

Reitnour Stops 'Cats For 1st Win

By BARRY SANKEY
Mercury Sports Writer

Jerry Reitnour has finally won one.

The right-hander, ace of the Spring-Ford Ram staff, after suffering through five straight defeats, picked up his initial mound win of the 1972 season Thursday, winning 7-3 over Owen J. Roberts at Bucktown.

"It felt real good to win," Reitnour said. "The 4-2 lead we had was the first I had been ahead all year . . . I couldn't believe I had the whole lead."

That 4-2 lead the Rams gave Reitnour was thanks to a four-run uprising in the fourth inning, after Roberts had jumped into a 2-0 lead in the third. The Rams added their other three runs in the fifth, knocking out Mark Ryznar, in posting their fifth victory of the year and second straight.

The Rams are now 5-6, one game away from .500, with two games left. Owen J. Roberts, in dropping its second straight, is 6-5. Boyertown, the other team fighting for the second in the North, is 6-4 and plays Pottstown this afternoon.

"I haven't had a game like this since last year in Legion ball," he said. "I felt real strong one day and went out and got beat 10-2."

Actually all five of his losses were better pitched games. In his last one to Pottstown he fanned 13 but was beaten 4-0.

JERRY REITNOUR

In Thursday's game he fanned only six, walked four, hit two batsmen and was even touched for an opposite field home run by Dave Kurtz in the fourth.

But he won.

Kurtz' homer, Reitnour said, was on a knuckle ball that the pitcher got high. The round-tripper was big in that it closed the gap to 4-3, before the Rams, who took advantage of some Ryznar control problems, got their three in the fifth.

"Mark wasn't sharp today," Roberts Coach Jack Hughes said. "Still we had only five hits." The Rams had six.

Hughes was also forced to start two sophomores Thursday when two of his regulars quit the squad.

Ryznar was touched for all six Ram hits before giving way to another lefty, Tim Orner. Ryznar walked five and committed a costly, three-base throwing error in the fourth which allowed two runs to score.

Ron Postell started the Ram fourth with a single, and then Ryznar issued free tickets to both Rick Pennypacker and Reitnour to load the bases.

Ram second baseman Mike Holoka then singled past outstretched shortstop Kurtz on an 0-2 pitch for two runs. Holoka took second as Reitnour was thrown out trying to take third.

Lance Viola walked putting runners on first and second. Catcher Bob Neborak then bounced one to Ryznar, who threw high past first, allowing Holoka and Viola to tally the third and fourth runs in the Rams' top scoring output of the season.

Orner came in and promptly walked Viola and then Neborak forcing in the seventh run.

Phillies Win In 12th On Luzinski's 3rd Hit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Greg Luzinski's run-scoring single to left field with two out in the 12th inning gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 6-5 victory over the San Diego Padres Thursday night.

San Diego had tied the score 5-5 in the sixth on John Jeter's home run after the Phillies had knocked out starter Steve Arlin with two runs in the fourth and fifth.

Denny Doyle doubled home the two runs in the fourth and Luzinski tripled home Tim McCarver and scored on Don Money's single to put the Phils in front 5-4 in the fifth. Money had four hits and walked twice in six at-bats.

Each team scored once in the second, then San Diego used a double by Enzo Hernandez, an infield single by Leron Lee and Nate Colbert's eighth home run of the season to score three times in the third.

Dodgers, Mets Split; Seaver Captures Fifth

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Crawford cracked a home run, triple and double as the Los Angeles Dodgers held off the rallying New York Mets for a 6-4 triumph Thursday night and a split of their day-night doubleheader.

Tom Seaver notched his fifth victory of the season and 100th of his career with ninth-inning relief help from Danny Frisella as the Mets won the afternoon game 2-1.

The Los Angeles left-fielder, who doubled in the second, also tripled in the seventh touching off a four-run burst that put the game out of the Mets' reach and knocked out starter Jim McAndrew, 1-1.

Frisella allowed a bunt single to Willie Davis and a one-out single to West Parker that scored the Dodgers' run. Duke Sims then drilled a line drive to first baseman Ed Kranepool, who turned in a game-ending double play.

GIANTS RIP EXPOS

MONTREAL (AP) — The San Francisco Giants battered Steve Renko and Tom Walker for six runs on 10 hits in the first three innings Thursday night en route to a 6-2 victory over the Montreal Expos.

The Giants opened the scoring in the first inning when four Montreal fielders let Dave Kingman's high pop fly drop into short left field for a double, scoring Chris Speier who had led off with a single.

Three straight Giant hits began a second-inning rally.

CARDINALS RALLY

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals took advantage of Houston pitcher Jerry Reuss' two-run throwing error and Marty Martinez's tie-breaking single to rally for three runs in the bottom of the ninth inning and beat the Astros 4-3 Thursday.

Reuss, traded by the Cards to the Astros two months ago, was breezing along with a 3-1 lead and a five-hitter when Ted Simmons and Donn Clendenon opened the ninth with singles.

Ted Sizemore then beat out a bunt down the third base line and, when Reuss threw the ball past first, Simmons and Clendenon scored and Sizemore raced to third.

RANGERS NIP ORIOLES

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Texas Rangers scored two runs before a man was retired in the first inning and held on behind the combined four hit pitching of Bill Gogolewski and three relievers to beat the Baltimore Orioles, 3-1 Thursday night.

The setback prevented the Orioles from grabbing a share of the American League east.

Steelers Sign 3

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League have announced the signing of three more draft choices, including No. 3 pick, tight end John McMakin of Clemson.

McMakin, a 6-foot-3, 225-pounder, caught 93 passes for 12 touchdowns in three years at Clemson.

Also signed were defensive end Joe Colquitt of Kansas State and Ron Curl, a unanimous All-Big Ten selection in 1969 and 1971.

Tom Seaver Reveals Legs Trouble Him

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets' Right Arm is having trouble with both legs.

"I just haven't been myself lately because I've pulled muscle fibers in my legs," Tom Seaver revealed Wednesday. "And few people realize how important my legs are to my pitching style."

It was evident that the star right-hander was not in 20-game winning form his last two outings. Both San Francisco and San Diego knocked him out of the box.

"With the soreness in my legs, I'm unable to get them in shape in between assignments and it's costing me in the late innings," said Seaver. "I use my legs to push off and to control my pitches.

"But my control is affected and I can't get the ball where I want it to go, especially in the seventh, eighth or ninth innings when my calves really begin to hurt."

Control was the Seaver trademark when he won the Cy Young Award as the National League's best pitcher in 1969 and last year when he led the league in strikeouts and earned run average.

"It's just a matter of not being able to do my homework, said the affable right-hander. "I haven't been able to run as well in between games. I have a schedule for running to prepare myself for starts. Usually, it's 14 wind sprints the day after I pitch, then 16 and finally 18 the day before my next assignment.

NEEDS STRONG LEGS

"I've explained to people about the timing and rhythm I need from strong legs and they look at me as if I'm crazy. I guess if they haven't really experienced it, they wouldn't know what I'm talking about."

Seaver uncorks his pitch with a fluid motion and literally winds up on his knees at the end of the toss. His right leg falls to the mound most everytime he lets go.

"I drive the ball and I wind up setting down at the end of the drive," said Seaver. "My calf muscles have a great bearing on the delivery."

Seaver has been languishing in whirlpool baths and taking massages for weeks. He feels that the treatments might produce results for his next start Thursday afternoon against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Scores Hole in One

Bear Juniors Capture 33rd Track Win in Row

Flaggs No. 2 Wins

A single by Red Johnson that drove in the tie-breaking run and a triple by Don Price in the 10th inning gave Flaggs No. 2 and 11-9 victory over Flaggs No. 1 in the opening of the Pottstown Industrial Slow Pitch Softball League, Thursday.

New Floor To Cut Slips

PALM SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — If $300,000-a-year basketball superstar Kareem Abdul-Jabbar takes a nasty fall, it could wreck the Milwaukee Bucks' franchise.

Ed Forsythe hopes to help.

"I've invented a revolutionary portable basketball floor which should greatly cut slip-downs and spills by these high paid players," said the 73-year-old pioneer of arena surfaces.

The Forsythe Floor has an equal amount of maple and open gaps that gives it the appearance of a giant, wooden waffle. It is already in production by a comany in Albuquerque, N.M.

This checkerboard basketball surface alternates one inch by one inch sections of wood with "gaps" of the same size. Forsythe says the holes will never cause a player to catch his toe and trip, nor will it bother the bounce of the basketball.

MORE TRACTION

"What it does is give the athlete much more traction," he said. "If Jerry West cuts suddenly for the basket, he'll hold tight rather than slipping and almost breaking his neck.

The "gaps" will run vertically near the center of the floor where much cutting occurs by players. Then, the holes ar horizontal near the basket where stopping is more important.

Cost of a regular, solid and slick floor is about $17,000. Forsythe figures the new model will be less.

There's also a time advantage for operators of heavily-used indoor stadiums. The inventor figures the installing time for a court will be trimmed from four hours to 45 minutes.

"Madison Square Garden can play basketball in the afternoon and, before the crowd gets to its cars, be set to play hockey that night."

New York Fans, Mets Happy With Mays Trade

"He deserves to be on a team that may win a pennant," said New York outfielder Dave Marshall. "And there's no doubt how valuable he'll be to this club."

Marshall expressed the sentiments of just about everybody after learning that the 41-year-old San Francisco superstar had been acquired in a trade.

"I'm glad to see him come," said relief pitcher Tug McGraw. "I grew up in the San Francisco area and always was a Mays man. He'll be able to help us in a lot of ways."

"The guy can still play," said Coach Eddie Yost. "Yogi Berra will find a spot for him, don't worry. He's a seasoned ballplayer who knows the game. Sure, he'll help."

"I've always been a Mays admirer," said pitcher Jon Matlack. "Hes a great clutch hitter. And that's something this team can use. He's got to be able to help us."

"It's great,' said third baseman Jim Fregosi.

"Whew ... thats fantastic," said Angela Gallo of New York. "Are you kidding? Fantastic. When they need him, Mays will be there ... one, two, three."

"Great," said Sid Schuster of Brooklyn. "It's a very good deal. The Mets had no right-handed pinch-hitters and Mays will be great in that role. Also, he'll spell Ed Kranepool at first base. Just great."

"Tremendous," said Jeff Rappeport of Brooklyn. "The Mets keep their starting pitchers and get a center fielder and first baseman in the deal. It's a great deal for New York."

"I'm glad to see him with the Mets," said Jerry Landau of Long Beach, N.Y. "He's just what the Mets need—right-handed bench strength. And no one in the game knows baseball like Willie."

Mrs. Joan Payson, owner of the team, was, perhaps, the happiest of all.

"I'm thrilled," she said succinctly, but it seemed enough.

In Glendale, Calif., Casey Stengel, who managed both the Yankees and Mets, said, "Mays probably has the best reputation of anybody who ever left New York and came back."

"Even if he sits on the bench, just being around, he is an asset to a ball club," Casey added.

Hotel Horseplay Sidelines Murcer With Contusions

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Horseplay in a hotel has knocked New York Yankees center fielder Bobby Murcer out of action for several days.

Murcer injured his left shoulder Wednesday when he slipped and fell against a wall as he chased several teammates down a hotel hallway, reported New York Post sportswriter Maury Allen.

Murcer sat out the Yanks' Wednesday night 2-0 loss to Minnesota and will probably miss their three-game series starting Friday in California against the Angels. Rusty Torres took his place against the Twins.

Murcer, whose .331 average, 25 home runs and 94 runs batted in led the Yanks in 1971, is off to a slow start this year with a .214 average, two homers and six RBI.

Explaining his injury, Murcer said he and some teammates returned to the hotel and, when they got off the elevator, he began chasing them.

"I was wearing these new shoes that I had bought just before we left on this trip," he said. "When I tried to negotiate the turn at the end of the corridor to the right, I slipped and fell against the corner of the cement wall on my left shoulder.

"I didn't bother me then. I went to bed and when I got up in the morning I couldn't lift my arm."

X-rays were negative but Twins physician Dr. Leonard J. Michienzi said he "has contusions of the posterior shoulder and deltoid muscle."

Malchitsky Drills Pair; Vikings Top Souderton

From a coach's standpoint, there are those games you deserved to win but didn't. And there are those you win that could just as easily gone the other way.

For Pat Svanson, it was a case of the latter Thursday, when his Perkiomen Valley High Vikings overtook Souderton for an 11-9 Bux-Mont League win at Collegeville.

While the Vikings won with only five hits and an amazing total of 17 walks, there was poetic justice in the verdict, Svanson reasoned later.

"In our first game with Souderton, we were ahead 5-3 going into the bottom of the seventh, made three errors and lost 6-5," Svanson recalled, striking a blow for the belief that good and bad fortune balances out.

While Svanson saw in Thursday's victory "a comedy of errors", there were some individual heroics.

FOURTH HILL VICTORY

One was Joe Malchitsky, who cracked a 350-foot homer to left and smashed a 410-footer over the centerfield fence. With the homers, he drove in five runs to boost his league-leading total to 19, some 9 more than his closest rival.

The 5-9, 160-pound pitcher held Souderton scoreless after the fourth, and picked up the win when the Vikings rallied from a 9-4 deficit.

With Souderton leading 5-1 in the third, Malchitsky drilled a Gary Brey serve over the fence in left with mate Joe Chrisman, who had walked, aboard. "That's the first time I've seen him pull the ball — his power alley is usually to right center," Svanson said.

In the fourth, down 9-4, Malchitsky came closer to his alley with a three-run blast that brought the Vikings within two.

START DOWNFALL

Then in the fifth, Perkiomen Valley cuffed losing pitcher Randy Ruth for the final three. Ruth whiffed the first two batters in the inning, but walked Chrisman and Malchitsky to start his downfall.

Dave Wojten ripped a single up the middle to score the tying run, and Ron Burns drew another pass to load the bases.

Charley Bartle, who had three runs batted in, worked the count to 3-2 before he grounded a pitch past the mound. Dave Hespell, Souderton second baseman, kept the ball from going into the outfield, as Bartle got an infield hit. And with the runners going on the two out, 3-2 pitch, Wojten hustled in from second on the play with the 11th run.

Thompson Lifts Falcons To 3rd Win Over South

The word on Pottsgrove High when the baseball season started was look for the Falcons as spoilers; they're not to be taken lightly.

The Falcons, playing out of the Northern Division in the Ches-Mont League, would probably prefer to be in the South, where, after Thursday's 2-1 victory over Coatesville, they're 3-0.

Riding the pitching of Mark Thompson and the hitting of Greg Vermeesch to their fourth Ches-Mont triumph, the Falcons failed to escape the Northern cellar because Spring-Ford also was winning Thursday.

Thompson scattered eight hits, fanning six, and after getting touched for a second inning run, faced just one serious jam when the host Raiders loaded the bases with two away in the fourth.

Vermeesch, meanwhile, was the batting star for the Falcons with a two-run single in the third. That uprising started with two outs against loser Barry Rubincam. Rick Martz and Nick Lozorak both singled, and Mike Stewart was hit with a pitch to fill the bases. Vermeesch followed with his hit to right field.

Coatesville scored its run in the second on a double by Jack Entrekin and a two-out single to right by Tom Moore. The loss was the Raiders' sixth in their last seven games, and gives them a 4-6 record.

Solivan 2-Hitter Blasts Pennridge From 1st Place

Bill Solivan hurled a two-hit shutout Thursday as the Upper Perkiomen Indians knocked off Bux-Mont leader Pennridge, 3-0, on the losers' field.

Solivan, backed by good defense had but two strikeouts in posting the Indians' third victory of the year. They are 3-6. Pennridge went into the game tied for first in the Bux-Mont at 7-1, with North Penn.

Glenn Mensch and Dave Whitcomb powered the Indians' seven-hit attack, with two apiece, and between them knocked in all three Upper Perkiomen runs.

Vikings Split Twinbill

Perkiomen Valley High's track team posted its first victory of the season Thursday after seven losses, Coach Hal Krum must have had mixed emotions because the Vikings also dropped their eighth Thursday.

It happened in a unique track arrangement. The Vikings whipped Jenkintown, 92-51, in a regularly scheduled meet at the Ursinus College track. And as part of a "doubleheader", the Vikings bowed to Upper Perkiomen, 99-50, in a meet that was rained out Tuesday.

Thursday's setup was similar to a tri-team, Krum admitted, but it wasn't exactly that. The Vikings ran only once, using those times for both opponents. "It was a gruelling day for me," Krum said while explaining the rare occurrence.

Greg Eckman turned in what was likely the best performance of the day — winning six events. He took the 120 high hurdles in 15 seconds flat to break his own school record, won the lows in 20.2, and placed first in the triple jump with a distance of 42-6¼.

The Vikings saw another school record fall in the discus, which Bill Fretz won with a throw of 130-10½ to topple a six-day old mark of 130-2 he held.

Upper Perkiomen, now 2-5 on the year, set one school record in the long jump, won by Bob Herman at 20-2½. Herman also won the 880 and the high jump.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

EMPLOYMENT advertising is placed under male or female headings for the convenience of our readers. This is done because most jobs generally appeal more to persons of one sex than the other.
UNLESS the advertisement itself specifics one sex or the other, job seekers should assume that the advertiser will consider applicants of either sex in compliance with the laws against discrimination.

Datsun 510 4-Door Sedan has an overhead cam engine, safety front disc brakes, and independent rear suspension. Plus nylon carpeting. Full-vinyl interior with reclining buckets. Tinted glass. Whitewalls.
